HUSKERS-JAYHAWKS IN CRUCIAL GAME

Lincoln Veterans Stage Parade In Tribute War Dead

30,000 WITNESS HOMECOMING TILT WITH K.U.

Nebraska Eleven Out to Nail Big Six Conference Flag to Memorial Stadium Staff—Impressive Tribute to University War Dead Conducted Before Kickoff.

BY GREGG M'BRIDE

A crowd of 30,000, the largest turnout of the Cornhusker home season, was at Memorial stadium Saturday afternoon as Nebraska and Kansas met in the important Big Six conference game of the day.

Victory for the Scarlet would give Nebraska its third consecutive Big Six football crown and make three straight seasons during which the Cornhuskers have swept aside all conference foes. A win for the Jayhawkers would provide considerable solace for the Kansans who have been mired deep in a slump following their sensational scoreless tie with the Notre Dame eleven at South Bend.

Armistice day and Homecoming day combined to give the stadium a holiday appearance. Thousands of old grads, including a group of several hundred former Nebraska varsity performers, mingled with the throng. The military touch was provided by the official staff of the 35th division staff of the national guard and several good-sized delegations from neighboring American Legion posts.

Kansas was well represented with a thousand or more Jayhawker fans in the stands. A special train from Lawrence arrived in Lincoln during the noon hour and many made the trip by automobile. Other groups included a hundred Nebraska high school editors in Lincoln for their annual convention. The knothole sections were filled to overflowing and aside from a few spots in the balconies, the stadium had the appearance of a sellout.

Honor N. U. War Dead.

Ten minutes before game-time, University of Nebraska students held their annual memorial ceremony in memory of the university men killed in the World war. The huge crowd was silent throughout the ceremony.

First on the field was the University of Nebraska band of 130 musicians, followed by the Tassels carrying the huge university service flag. A guard of Pershing rifles, crack troopers of the student regiment brought up the rear.

The march halted at the north end of the field, the Pershing rifles firing a volley and buglers sounding taps. The huge crowd stood with bared heads and was hushed as a bugler from the field sounded taps and was echoed by a bugler from the farmost spot in the west balcony. The band played the national anthem and then the field was cleared for action.

Preceding the ceremony the teams warmed up with brief workouts.

The starting lineup:

FIRST PERIOD.

Masterson kicked off out of bounds on the Kansas 15-yard line. The ball was brought back for another kick. Masterson again kicked off, 50 yards to Harris who made a return kick which Miller of Nebraska got back 15 yards to the Kansas 48-yard line.

Sauer hit the Kansas right tackle for three yards. Sauer broke through the center of the line for a first down on the Jayhawk 30-yard line. Masterson plunged for one yard. Boswell tried the Kansas left end and Casini spilled him for a six-yard loss. Sauer's pass was intercepted by Beach and it gave Kansas the ball on the Jayhawk 34-yard line.

Harris punted to Miller who fumbled, but picked it up and got back eight yards to the Nebraska 24-yard line. Boswell lost two yards on a try at the Kansas left end. Casini stopped him. Sauer's quick kick was fumbled by Harris, but Mehringer recovered for Kansas on the Jayhawk 44-yard line. On the next play Nebraska was off side and drew a five-yard penalty. A lateral pass, Dumm to Harris, lost three yards.

On the next play Manning lost two more yards. Boswell and Sauer stopping him. Harris dropped back to kick, but fumbled the pass from center for a four-yard loss. Harris' short punt was fumbled by Meier, but Nebraska recovered on the Nebraska 39-yard line. Sauer cut back for three yards. Boswell tried the Kansas left end and lost a yard. Sauer's punt rolled dead on the Kansas 20-yard line. Meier downed the ball. Harris' punt was returned by Miller 14 yards to the Nebraska 44-yard line.

Exchange Punts.

Sauer went over the Kansas left guard for four yards. Miller failed to gain on a lateral pass. Nebraska fumbled on the next play and Sklar recovered for Kansas on the Cornhusker 46-yard line. A Kansas forward pass was incomplete. O'Neil missing the catch. A second Kansas pass was broken up by Masterson and the Jayhawks took a five-yard penalty.

Harris' punt fell in the end zone for a touchback, making it Nebraska's ball on its 20-yard line. Boswell hit center for three yards. Sauer faked a punt, and gained a yard before Beach stopped him. Sauer punted out of bounds on the Kansas 43-yard line. Kansas took out time. A forward pass, Manning to Casini was incomplete, the ball rolling off Casini's fingertips. Manning lost a yard on a try at the Husker left tackle, Kilbourne stopping him. A second forward pass by Manning to O'Neil was good for a first down on the Husker 29-yard line.

Jayhawks Near Goal.

Dumm charged the Nebraska right tackle, made a yard. Manning faked a pass and ran the Nebraska right end and cut back for a first down on the Huskers' 18-yard line. Manning went over the Nebraska left tackle for four yards. Nebraska took out time for Meier. Meier suffered a broken finger. Elmer Hubka replaced him in the Husker line. The ball was on the Husker 14-yard line.

Manning tried the right side of the Nebraska line and made a yard Manning hit the other side, picked up a yard, leaving four to go as the quarter ended with Kansas in possession of the ball on the Husker 12-yard line.

Score: Nebraska, 0; Kansas, 0.

VICTIM'S WALLET FOUND ON TANKER

Kidnapers Fail to Give Instructions After Asking $40,000.

SAN PEDRO, Cal., Nov. 11—(AP)—Babe Ruth, Baseball homerun king, and 187 other passengers were held temporarily aboard the Matson liner Lurline after it docked here today while police made an intensive search of the vessel for Brooke L. Hart of San Jose and his kidnapers.

Ship officers said no trace of anyone answering Hart's description had been found. Police then started their own search.

The search was made as the result of reports from San Francisco that Hart's wallet had been found on a tanker which had fueled the Lurline before the latter vessel departed for San Pedro yesterday, officers believeing the wallet may have been hurled from the Lurline.

Officers questioned each passenger. Those aboard were allowed to go ashore one by one after they satisfied police and ship officials that they were in no wise connected with the sensational $40,000 ransom kidnaping.

Hart's Wallet Found.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11—(AP)—Discovery of a wallet bearing the name and containing personal cards of Brooke L. Hart, who was kidnaped from San Jose Thursday, was reported to authorities here today.

NATIONS PAUSE TO PAY TRIBUTE TO WAR HEROES

Veterans All Over U. S. Gather to Salute Fallen Comrades.

(By the Associated Press)

The nations paused today to revive memories of a peace which came to a war-torn world fifteen years ago and to honor those who fought and died in the great war.

In many parts of the world millions paid silent tribute to their soldier dead. Activities were brought to a halt at 11 o'clock, the hour at which the World war armistice became effective and which was the signal today for the start of many memorial services.

All over the United States veterans of the world conflict gathered to salute their fallen comrades.

The eternal light in New York's Madison Square was the center of observance in the metropolis with officials of veterans' organizations,

U. S. GOLD PRICE AGAIN INCREASED

Dollar Decline Checked and Trend Reversed On London Market.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11—(AP)—A pice of $33.32 per ounce was established today for RFC purchases of newly mined domestic gold an increase of 12 cents over yesterday's quotation and a new high.

The price was well above the dollar quotation for gold at London which ranged from $33.12 at the opening exchange rate of $5.09 to the ponnd to $32.69 at the closing exchange quotation of $5.02½.

Where yesterday's domestic price of $33.20 was set below the prevailing world quotation, today's apparently resumed the practice of establishing the price here at a point above the world figure.

Dollar Decline Reversed.

LONDON, Nov. 11—(AP) -- The downward slide of the United States dollar was not only checked but the trend was substantially reversed in today's market exchange dealings which closed with the quotation of $5.02½ to the pound, a gain of more than 10 cents compared with last night's price

It closed yesterday at $5.13 to the pound.

The pressure which jammed the exchange value to such record low levels in the past few days was completely relaxed. On the contrary there was considerable bidding for dollars, although the market was quiet and there was not a large volume of business.

'Kidnaped' Baby Found Asleep At Neighbor's Home

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 11—(AP)—A dramatic search throughout southern California for 2-year-old Peter Baldwin, son of the general manager of the local office of the San Francisco Bridge Co., and his supposed kidnapers, ended this morning when the child was found sleeping peacefully in bed with two playmates in the home of a neighbor. Baldwin, reported the screen re-

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. moved fro mthe back porch of their home while they were away to a motion picture show and their child stolen.

"Little Peter was screaming and shivering in the middle of the street," said Mrs. A. H. Nerad, a neighbor. "That was about 8 o'clock last night. So I ran out and threw a blanket around him and took him into my home."

Police said they would investigate why the woman made no report to them of finding the child.

FORD COMPANY IS ELIGIBLE TO U. S. CONTRACTS

Proof of Code Violation Rests On Government, McCarl Rules.

CONTROVERSY OVER TRUCKS IS ENDED

Maryland Dealer Submitted Lowest Bid On 1,000 New Machines.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11— (AP) — Comptroller General McCarl ruled today that Henry Ford is eligible to receive government contracts although he has refused to sign the NRA automobile code on behalf of his manufacturing companies.

He held that Ford can be listed as ineligible only if it is proven that he is violating the code and that the burden of proof in that case rests with the government.

Thus, an affirmative statement of adherence to provisions of the code cannot be required of Ford as a prelude to the award of a government contract.

Controversy Over Trucks.

The ruling was made in a letter to Secretary Wallace as the outgrowth of controversy over the purchase of 1,000 trucks for the civilian conservation corps.

The low bid was submitted by the Northwest Motor Co., Ford dealers at Bethesda, Md., which is complying with the code for automobile dealers and displays the blue eagle. It contended that the contract for trucks was a matter between it and the government.

McCarl, however, asserted that irrespective of the agreement between the Ford Motor Co., and the Maryland dealer, he would "generally

FOOD INDUSTRIES ADVISORY BOARD FOR U. S. IS OUT

Members Said to Have Resigned as Protest Against Slow Action.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11—(AP)—The food industries advisory board, created last spring by the farm adjustment administration, was disclosed today to have been dissolved. Explanations for the issolution differed.

At the office of George N. Peek, farm administrator, the explanation was made that the board represented all food industries and proved to be "too unwieldly" to faciliate action in perfecting food codes and marketing agreements.

There were also reports that members of the board had resigned in a body as a protest against slow action by the farm administration in perfecting and legalizing food codes.

Not Our Understanding.

Peek's office said of the resignation rumor that "this is not our understanding," adding that R. R. Deupree, Cincinnati, O., an official

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 11—(INS)—Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace conceded the farmers' right to "strike" and picket peacefully, but saw no hope for relief in that direction on his arrival here today.

Martial music sounded a peace time message through the streets of Lincoln Saturday as local military and patriotic organizations, flanked on both sides by crowds of onlookers, marched to the University of Nebraska stadium for a colorful but solemn ceremony of memorial to those who fell before the great war ended exactly 15 years ago.

While nearly 1,500 citizens bared their heads and military men came to salute, tribute was paid to the dead of that war with a rifle salute which echoed back from the walls of the stadium and blended with the sound of taps which followed the salute. In impressive climax, a massed band of 225 pieces led the military procession, containing nearly a thousand university cadets, in parade past the reviewing stand in the east stadium.

Official Review Parade.

In the reviewing stand was Gov. Charles W. Bryan, deans of the University of Nebraska faculty, members of the varsity football team, officials, officers of the Thirty-fifth division staff of the national guards and other personages.

Sidewalks along N street, from Fifteenth to Eleventh, and north to P street were well lined with spectators as the parade passed shortly after 10 o'clock. Smaller crowds stood along the finish of the route of march, which was north on Eleventh to R street, thence north to the stadium.

Over Mile Long.

With the massed colors near the head of the procession, the parade stretched out for more than a mile. Behind the colors marched representatives of every conflict in which the United States has engaged since the Civil war, with the auxiliaries of their respective organizations. Interspersed with these organizations were the bands and drum corps, sounding out the strains to which the hundreds of marching feet kept time.

Floats represented nearly half a dozen local organizations. Charles A. Fraley post 1450 Veterans of the Foreign Wars, represented a replica

The other members of the committee, which leaves Sunday night for Washington, are: L. E. Gunderson, university finance secretary and acting corporation secretary, and Lt. Col. W. H. Oury, commandant of the University R. O. T. C.

Protesting the building of an armory, a committee of three Lincoln pastors presented themselves to the board of regents Saturday. The ministers were: A. L. Weatherly, Rev. Ervine Inglis and Rev. J. D. M. Buckner.

Armistice Day Uniforms And Grid Followers' Regalia Make Colorful Throng; Streets And Stores Jammed

Thousands of Saturday shoppers, homecoming graduates, an dout-of-town football fans thronged the streets of Lincoln Saturday from 9 o'clock on. Work-torn O street was jammed with traffic and the few available parking spaces were filled all during the day.

Police were stationed at every busy corner to aid in swift moving of the congested traffic and up until 2 o'clock no accidents or mishaps had been reported to headquarters. Parking space on side streets from L to Vine was at a premium and, long before game time, both mails and T relfth street on the university campus were packed with parked cars.

Stores Are Jammed.

Even during the noon hour the crowds filled the business district and showed no signs of a letup. Business houses were busy all during the morning and afternoon.

And with Homecoming and Armistice day coming together, it was a colorful crowd just before the Nebraska-Kansas game began. The dark blue suits of the Kansas university bandsmen were seen next to the brilliant hues of the American Legion drum corps members. Here and there were girls dressed in immaculate white, the Kansas Jay Janes, pep organization, and girls in red sweaters and white skirts, Nebraska's own Tassels.

Khaki Memories.

At intervals in the throng, men in the khaki doughboy outfits of 15 years ago recalled another Armistice day.

At least one of every two in the crowd seemed to be headed for the stadium to swell the throng there. With blankets over arms, and some with tickets clutched tightly, Nebraska's fans and rooters from Kansas all made their way together to see the Big Six titular scrap.

Numerous cars from Kansas were in the tight-locked traffic as well as cars from Missouri, Iowa, Colorado, South Dakota, Wisconsin and Minnesota, and a number of other states.

As Rogers Sees It

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Nov. 11—Well, we got a lot of excitement out here in Los Angeles. Five United States senators arrived here to investigate, and the fan dancer from the Chicago fair arrived to be investigated.

The dollar was lower yesterday in Europe than it has ever been before. What a tough break for the Americans that go to see Europe and have never been further away from home in their own country than the garage!

The dollar may have been cheap in London, but there certainly wasn't any laying around for nothing in our country. And after all, it is a home talent commodity.

Last Man's Club Of Lincoln Doctors Who Were In A.E.F. Marks Tradition

In commemoration of their association at Base Hospital No. 49 in France during the World war, fourteen physicians, member of the Lincoln Last Man's club will gather at the home of Dr. George H. Walker, 3000 Stratford avenue, Armistice night. The club roster originally contained fifteen names, the membership being reduced with the death of Dr. J. M. Mayhew.

The organization was founded Armistice day, 1919, on the suggestion of Dr. Walker. Dr. Roscoe L. Smith and Dr. G. W. Covey and held its first meeting at Dr. Smith's home. Since then it has met each Armistice day—when the men spend the day together, talking over experiences in France. The day is climaxed with the evening ceremonial dinner, at which all attend in war uniforms.

Today they were to have been in the parade, but according to Dr. Walker, professional duties made it impossible for them to participate at such an early hour. After the parade, the club assembled at Dr. Mayhew's grave to lay a wreath on it and then had luncheon together at the Cornhusker hotel. They attended the football game in a group. Following this they will reassemble at Dr. Walker's house at 6:30, with the dinner at 7 o'clock.

A tradition of the club is the tablet upon which the names of the members are written in silver. On the death of a member the name is retraced in gold script. The last survivor will drink the club's toast to his departed comrades.

The fourteen members of the club now, with their army rank, are Col. H. W. Orr; Maj. E. W. Rowe; Captains G. H. Walka, J. J. Hompes, C. C. Hickman, T. C. Moyer, A. D. Munger; Lieutenants G. W. Covey, H. E Flansburg, S. G. Zemer, M. J Breuer, F. W. Webster, J. E. M. Themson, R. L. Smith. Dr. Mayhew served as major. Membership is limited to the original 15 men

The officer of the day for this Armistice day is Dr Walker. After the dinner, at which he is host, Lincoln's Last Man club will adjourn until roll call on November 11, 1934.

TENANTS SCHOOL LANDS BENEFIT

Two Hundred Have Thus Far Signed Federal Wheat Contracts.

About 200 contracts for reduction of wheat acreage on school lands owned by the state of Nebraska, in accordance with the allotment plan of the United States government now being put into operation, have been signed by the lessees and the contracts have been approved by Land Commissioner Conklin for the state More of these contracts are coming in every mail to receive his O. Federal regulations require the signature of both tenant and landlord for every piece of land not owned by the person living upon it. The person working the land is the one to whom the government pays the bonus of 30 cents per bushel for all estimated yield on acreage taken out of production. No money comes to the state for signing the contracts, except that the lessees are thereby placed in better position to pay up their delinquent rentals.

In many cases, however, the occupants of the state lands are not behind in their payments, and the cash they receive from Washington can all be used in other ways.

The largest number of contracts submitted to Land Commissioner Conklin are from southwest Nebraska and the panhandle district, which is the chief wheat growing territory of the state. All sections, however, are represented.

The land commissioner and his deputy, J. H. Wehn, will start next Tuesday on a two weeks' trip to western Nebraska to conduct hearings and make personal inspections in six counties relative to the reappraisal of their school lands. As some of the places to be visited are over 450 miles from Lincoln, they decided to cover the whole area in one tour, thus saving their own time and some expense for automobile mileage to the state. The itinerary is:

Deuel county—Chappell, Nov. 15.
Kimball—Kimball, Nov. 16
Chevenne—Sidney, Nov 17.
Scottsbluff—Gering, Nov. 20.
Banner—Harrisburg, Nov 21.
Morrill—Bridgeport Nov 23

The two officials are just back from Custer county, where they spent three days with the county board inquiring into values of 50,000 acres of state land. The tracts they looked at were found to be in good condition. Tenants there employ up-to-date farming methods and the crop of corn this season is very satisfactory.

The Custer county board is asking for a 10 per cent cut in appraised valuations on the school lands, which are now listed at an average of only $5.43 per acre, ranging from $1.50 up to $15.

CHOIR TO SING AT CONVENTION

National Music Teachers Association to Hear Cathedral Group.

The Great Cathedral choir of Lincoln, under the direction of John Rosborough, is to appear on December 29 evening program of the National Music Teachers association which is one of the largest events of late December in Lincoln. It will offer a group on the same program with the Lincoln Symphony orchestra, with Dr. Howard Hanson, director of the Eastman School of Music at Rochester, N. Y., as guest conductor.

Because of the large student membership in the choir of fifty-five voices, many of whom will be away from Lincoln for the holidays, the group voted its desire to sing at the convention program. A number will return from all parts of Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, and Iowa to provide a complete personnel for the appearance, which is to illustrate Mr. Rosborough's lecture on choral work before the morning session of the national meeting.

Although the selections to be given have not been determined fully at this time, "The Shepherd," a composition of the late Dean Peter Lutkin of Northwestern university school of music is to be given as a memorial tribute. Dean Lutkin, founder of the first of the nationally known A Cappella choirs, for five successive years came to Lincoln as rehearsal master for the Great Cathedral choir, originally the Lincoln A Cappella choir. He also was one of the founders of the National Music Teachers association, of which the choral department is a branch.

MUMMERS PLAY EARNS ACCLAIM

Lincoln High Cast Gives Excellent Show In English Comedy.

Up Lincoln High school way there is a dramatic organizaton known as the Mummers. These Mummers were in their glory Friday evening as they presented their first play of the season and rightfully so too for A. E. W. Mason's play, "Green Stockings" was staged in a manner delightful to behold.

It doesn't matter that there wasn't a "green stocking" in the whole three acts—that was only a symbol—but what does matter is that the 1,200 persons who saw the play laughed and applauded constantly.

The "Fake" Colonel Arrives.

The play was a comedy based upon the complications which arise when Celia Faraday, eldest daughter of an English family, invents a "fake" Colonel Smith to whom she mysteriously becomes engaged in order to escape the ridicule of the family. All goes well enough until a real Colonel Smith appears on the scene but you can guess the rest—they lived happily ever after.

All members of the cast were excellent but none more so than Patricia Lahr, who as Celia Faraday was what can only be called superb. Superb because there was not a moment when she slipped from her role and her interpretation was truly excellent. Virginia Kirkbride as Mrs. Chisholm Faraday, an aunt from Chicago, shared honors in the way she carried off her part. There was a "giggle" scene with Mrs. Chisholm Faraday as the "giggler-in-chief" and so splendidly was it done that members of the audience might have begun to worry a little lest it was the real thing.

All Acted Well.

As for the rest of the characters —all of them ably cast by Miss Frances McChesney, who directed the performance—they were good too. Robert Alexander as Colonel Smith was any girl's beautiful dream of a dashing army officer. Honorable Robert Tarver, played by Bob Wadhams, seemed real enough as a young Englishman seeking election to parliament and Natalie Rehlander as Phyllis Faraday his lady love gave an able performance.

Then there were the four who gave genuine English atmosphere to the comedy with their imported accents. They were William Faraday, head of the house, played by Kenneth Myers; Admiral Grice, James Raleigh; and Henry Steele and friends of the family, played by Don Zieg, Gale Safford, and Charles Reilly respectively. George Place left noting to be desired as Martin, the butler.

Mary Gavin was refreshingly sedate as Madge Rockingham, one of the married sisters in the family and Betty Andrews gave a nice touch to her part as Evelyn Trenchard, the other married sister.

All other things being said "Green Stockings" was all that one could ask in the way of an evening's amusement. The theater orchestra directed by Bernard F. Nevin furnished the music.

The Cast.

Madge Rockingham	Mary Gavin
Evelyn Trenchard	Betty Andrews
Mrs Chisholm Faraday	Virginia Kirkbride
Martin	George Place

James Raleigh	Gale Safford
William Faraday	Kenneth Myers

'Scavenger' Hunters Face Busy Sunday

Queer Quests Mapped by Lincoln Group for New Game.

IT'S going to be a mighty busy Sunday afternoon for some people. Governor Bryan, for instance is to spend some time, (whether he knows it or not) autographing hard boiled eggs; and Mr. W. T. Irons will have to keep his eye on some of his wearing apparel, and the red heads and gray heads in the city are to be more popular than they are usually for a few hours Sunday afternoon —not even a coal bin nor a chicken coop will be safe.

For there is to be a "scavenger" party. Miss Roma Ridnour, Miss Clara Olson, Miss Helen Cochran, Miss Virginia Irons and Miss Susan Lau are to be the hostesses, and about twenty-four guests have been invited.

The group starts the hunt from the Ridnour home, and at a stated time will meet for supper at the Ridnour cabin near Milford.

And here is the "scavenger" list;

Hard boiled egg, autographed by John Anderson or Governor Bryan; old shoe with hole in sole; picture of President Franklin D. Roosevelt; a horseshoe, seven pretzels. Mr. Irons' garter; a mousetrap; autographed bandage from Dr. Fritz Teal; paper sack of coal; spoon from a public cafe; twelve pieces of kindling eight inches in length; rubber ball; empty cigar box filled with walnuts; speed ticket from policeman; a bone hairpin; a record of one of the latest song hits; three red hairs and three gray hairs. a June number of the Saturday Evening Post; corn cob pipe; a coin smashed by a street car; a pheasant's tail; two church programs, one autographed by minister; call slip from university library; necklace of puffed rice; a sparrow or a baby chicken.

Federal Funds For Postoffice Structures In State; Extradition Fairbury Suspects Is Refused

NEBRASKA GETS NEW BUILDINGS

Allotments Are Made for Four More Federal Structures.

WASHINGTON, Nov 11 —(AP)— The public works administration has announced the allotment of $16,698,675 for construction of 237 public buildings in all parts of the country and inaugurated a new policy in the construction of such structures. The policy embraced a a plan to erect needed postoffices of a "sensible utilitarian character instead of the monumental edifices" built in past years.

All previous postoffice contracts were restudied by the public works administration and officials said the new policy had made possible new postoffices at greatly reduced costs.

The postoffices to be erected include: Norton, Kas., $47,800; David City, Neb., $45,700; Wayne, Neb. $58,500; Seward, Neb., $42,800; Lexington, $45,000.

ROOSEVELT WILL END SOME TAXES

Liquor Levies to Take Place of Those Eliminated After Repeal.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11—(AP)—President Roosevelt expects to issue a proclamation about December 5 to end taxes that the treasury estimates are producing about $227,000,000 a year.

These taxes were included in the national industrial recovery act for the special purpose of financing the emergency program. Attached to them was a proviso under which a presidential proclamation would end them—after repeal.

Repeal officially will come on the afternoon of December 5. President Roosvelt, represented as regarding his tax-suspnding proclamation as mandatory, intends to issue it as soon as he has received formal notification of the action which makes Utah the thirty-sixth state to ratify the new repealing constitutional amendment.

Several Levies to Be Eliminated.

When he does act, his proclamation will, beginning January 1, eliminate half a cent of the federal gasoline tax and the 5 per cent now levied on dividends at the source. On July 1, 1934, the capital stock tax will end and the excess profits levy will be dropped at the end of the taxable year chosen by the taxpawer

The president hopes, too, to be able to eliminate some of the so-called "nuisance" levies. In all, officials estimate that he wishes to do away with nearly $500,000,000 in taxes.

But all will not be beer and skittles for the taxpayer—especially the one who uses the new legalized beverages. Administration sources say it will be necessary to raise this $500,000,000 given up by levies on distilled liquors.

Student Routed By Gun, Robbery Call Proves False Alarm

A false alarm sent Captain Rowden and Officers Britton, Woods and Davis scurrying to Sixteenth and Holdrege streets Friday night when a university student, Richard Kelley, 625 North Sixteenth street, called police headquarters and reported that an oil station was being robbed.

Kelly said that he drove up to the station, and found it closed. He noticed a light inside and saw the cash register drawer was open. After he had been at the station a few minutes, Kelly said that an armed man came around the corner and commanded him to "get out of here, there's no gas here!"

When police arrived at the station, all was quiet. Officers, after hearing Kelly's story in detail, said that it probably was an American Legion patrolman who ordered Kelly off the premises.

Today

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

James Roosevelt, son of the president, back from Europe and talks with Pope Pius, Ramsay Macdonald, the French president, Lebrun and Mussolini, reports that war talk is "all a myth."

That being so, perhaps he asked all, except the pope, why they were spending so much money getting ready for war, instead of paying their debts to the United States.

War would have been called a myth at the beginning of 1914, when there was no Hitler, promising revenge, and no Russia, laying down the law to proud Japan.

The possibility of war between Japan and Russia is no "myth." On Wednesday the Russian ambassador in Tokio, his language hardly diplomatic, told Japan's government "I suggest that you stop flying your airplanes along the Russian border." The Japanese ambassador did not attend the reception of the Russian president in Moscow that day.

And Stalin, successor to Peter the Great's power, walked through the streets of Moscow, bareheaded, to honor Katayama, member of the Japanese communist party who died in Moscow.

Conservative Japan will not view that funeral with satisfaction.

Samuel Skoblow called "the torch" admits that he has started "about 50 fires since 1931" being paid from $200 to $2,000 for each "job," depending on the amount of insurance collected.

Mr. Abraham Goldner of Brooklyn, confessed to burning down Mrs. Rose Brenner's store. Mrs. Brenner collected $1,750 insurance. After Goldner's confession the jury recommended mercy. Why mercy?

Whatever nature does men can do better. Automobiles are swifter than deer, the rifle overtakes any bird, submarines go down to observe the fish, but no fish comes up, to study us.

And the airplane flies three times as fast as any bird. Nature merely sets the axample, these men show how it should be done.

Nevertheless, man can still learn from humble animal relations.

Flocks of golden plovers, have arrived at the Hawaiian islands after a two thousand mile flight from the Bering sea, in 24 hours.

Going 90 miles an hour, they rise high above the earth to find upper air currents that help them on their journey.

Soon long distance human fliers will go up high enough to get above storms, fogs, hail and troublesome winds. Traveling from the Pacific to the Atlantic they will go up six miles and sail along with the eastward movement of the earth blowing as steadily as the famous trade winds.

FARM VIOLENCE IS NOT TYPICAL —BROWN

Farm Mortgage Men are Told Nebraskans Showing Patience.

Addressing 50 representatives of the Iowa-Nebraska Farms association at a dinner meeting at the Grand hotel Friday night, E. P. Brown, Arbor, said the "Hell raising farmers who are making the first page in the newspapers today are not the typical Nebraska agriculturists."

He said that although the Nebraska farmers realize the seriousness of their plight, they are still thoughtful enough to see the unwisdom of impatience. They know that it takes time to accomplish their purposes, and they are not trying to force attention upon themselves by displaying a lot of rough stuff.

J. A. Gordon, New York City, executive representative of the Farm Mortgage conference of the major insurance companies interested in farm mortgag problems, discussed at some length the present agricultural situation. He reported conditions in the south much better than in this section, because, he said, "With the $110,000,000 federal aid which they have already received in the cotton section ,a vast improvement has been made in the banking and mortgage conditions of the area."

Mr. Gordon urge dthe men not to expect too much in a hurry, but to back the administration and give it a chance. "With all of the wheat, corn and hog money circulating soon, we are bound to be prosperous," he went on.

Dean W. Trick, Des Moines, chairman of the group, also spoke. S. C. Waugh, Lincoln, of the First Trust Co., presided. Harvey C. McClary of the National Life Insurance Co., Cedar Rapids, secretary of the association was another of the officers present. Directors of the group who were there were: Grant L. Miller, jr., Omaha, of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Co.; H. G. Harrison, Omaha, of the Prudential Insurance Co.; and W. E. Barkley, Lincoln, president of the Lincoln Joint Stock Land Bank.

REPORTER CIVIC DUTY DEPICTED

Lawrence Calls On High School Journalists Maintain Ideals.

Painting the picture of the newspaperman performing a distinct service to his community and foretelling a bright future in journalism, J. E. Lawrence, editor of The Lincoln Star, addressed the evening banquet of the Nebraska High School Press association in the Lindell hotel Friday evening. Nearly 200 attended the affair.

"Journalism is no easy road, though," Mr. Lawrence warned the high school newspapermen, "for the three essential requirements in a good reporter are an ability for the eternal grind, sympathy and the understanding for humanity, and wholesomeness. With these three requirements and some native ability, he cannot fail; without them, he cannot succeed."

"In the decade just passed," Mr. Lawrence said, "we came very near to disaster. Few know just how near we did come to going out. We had a general financial, moral, political and social breakdown and were on our way to devastation, when an individual came in, seemingly from out of nowhere, took charge of the people, and marshalled them off from collapse and destruction."

"I have unlimited faith in young men," Mr. Lawrence continued. "I like your frankness, your candor, your energy and your ambition. "If you will but realize the work to be done, and make up your mind to do it, you cannot fail. I believe that you can bring something to journalism that journalists in the past and the present have been unable to bring to it."

He paid tribute to Prof. M. M. Fogg, founder of the school of journalism in the University of Nebraska, as "having been the greatest influence in the state for the development of journalistic training in the high schools and the universities."

Oz Black gave a short chalk talk. The Jolly Rogers quartet, composed of Russ Gilman, Don Jackson, Alfred Reider, and Bill Miller, sang several numbers. They were accompanied by Paul LeBars. Parvin Witte of the University of Nebraska school of music also sang.

A special edition of the Daily Nebraskan, which was put out by Sigma Delta Chi, honorary professional fraternity of the journalism school, was distributed at the banquet. Betty Magee of Jackson high school served as toastmistress for the affair.

SUSPECTS STAY IN MINNEAPOLIS

Governor Refuses Extradite Pair Wanted in Fairbury.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 11—(AP)—Gov. Floyd B. Olson Friday denied extradition to Nebraska of Abe Jankowitz, alias Lewis, and Ben Siegal, Twin Cities liquor runners, to face bank robbery charges in connection with the holdup April 4 of the First National bank of Fairbury. Four witnesses appeared at the all-day hearing in behalf of Nebraska authorities, two witnesses identifying Jankowitz and two Siegal as having allegedly participated in the holdup.

Nine other witnesses testified, however, that the defendants were in the twin cities on the day of the robbery. Jankowitz and Seigal also denied having ever been in Nebraska at any time.

The two men were arrested in Minneapolis Sept. 21 and authorities said they had nitroglycerine and burglars tools in their automobile.

In denying the extradition, Governor Olson said the evidence produced in behalf of Seigal was from witnesses of "unimpeachable credibility" and conclusively showed he was in Minneapolis on the date of the robbery.

No Right Sit as Jury.

Governor Olson said while the evidence in behalf of Jankowitz was not as conclusive as that for Seigal, it was sufficient for him to also reach the same determination.

"The governor of a state has no right to sit as a jury in an extradition matter, but when he is satisfied beyond any doubt that a mistake has been made by the demanding state, it is his duty to deny the request for executive warrant, notwithstanding the antecedents of the person or persons sought by the demanding state," Governor Olson said.

"There is no doubt in my mind but that the witnesses from Nebraska are honestly mistaken in their identification of Jankowitz and Seigel, and that the defendants did not participate in the robbery of the bank at Fairbury on April 4.

Although pointing out either Jankowitz or Seigal as participating in the holdup, the four Nebraska witnesses could not describe any of the clothing worn by the bandits at the time of the robbery, the color of their hair or eyes or whether they wore hats or caps. The witnesses were R. S. Wilfley, cashier of the bank, and three customers who were in the bank at the time, J. A. Stark, A. S. Spencer and C. Lien, all of Fairbury.

NEBRASKA CORN YIELD REDUCED

Anderson Predicts Crop 229,905 Bushels In State This Year.

Corn yields in Nebraska, averaging 22.5 bushels per acre, are slightly below those of last year, according to the monthly report of A. E. Anderson, state and federal statistician.

The report released Monday, places this year's corn crop at 229,905,000 bushels as compared with 269,293,000 bushels last year and the 5-year average of 230,002,000 bushels. In general, central, east central and northeastern Nebraska will have a fairly good crop this year. Other districts of the state, especially south central and southeastern districts will have much less than an average crop.

District average yields vary from 15 bushels in southeastern Nebraska to almost 30 bushels in east central Nebraska. Corn in western, north central, southwestern and south central districts will average from 16 to 18 bushels per acre. Weather conditions during September hastened maturity and the first killing frost came late in the season. Corn quality is somewhat below normal due to drouth and hot weather during the summer.

Production of small grain, forage and hay crops was below normal. Sugar beets are excellent. The average yield of sugar beets is 13.2 tons and the production is placed at 1,069,000 tons as compared with 877,000 tons last year and the 1927-31 average of 1,028,000 tons. Potatoes are making an average yield of 73 bushels for a production of 8,760,000 bushels. This is comparable to 8,775,000 bushels last year and the 5-year average of 9,404,000 bushels.

Average yields of seed crops are as follows; alfalfa, 2.5 bushels per acre; red clover, 1.8 bushels and sweet clover, 3.9 bushels.

The total production of apples is 370,000 bushels against 627,000 bushels last year. The strictly commercial apple production in southeastern Nebraska is estimated at 290,000 bushels as compared with 125,000 bushels in 1932 and 366,000 bushels in 1931. The production of grapes is estimated at 1,824 tons as compared with 2,960 tons last year.

THE NEWMAN AWARD FOR SENATOR NORRIS.

THERE is being provided a proper recognition of the magnificent services of United States Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska in behalf of the American people.

Announcement that the 1933 Cardinal Newman award, given annually by the Newman foundation of the University of Illinois, was to go to the distinguished Nebraskan should be a matter of great satisfaction to the people of this state. He richly deserves it. It is made on the basis of contributions to human welfare, statesmanship, education, philanthropy and the science for humanitarianism. Who in America has done more in that broad field than Senator Norris?

He has waged relentless warfare in behalf of humanity. He has fought for honesty in government, honesty in business, and for application of democratic principles and ideals in American life. He has never chosen the popular course. On occasion after occasion, when priceless pinciples wee at stake, he never hesitated to challenge with all the strength at his command policies he felt to be inimical to the welfare of people. It has taken stamina, courage, a strength of iron, and devotion in the greatest degree to make the fight unceasingly that has been waged by Senator Norris. He has been wounded in these struggles. He has taken blow after blow, sneer after sneer, taunt after taunt—taken them standing up, without yielding ground, without malice or bitterness—endured them for the sake of his convictions and with a tolerance rare in human beings recognized that the despicable methods employed against him frequently were to be suffered for the sake of democratic institutions.

We say no man more richly deserves this award in behalf of human welfare than George Norris. He fought for a greater measure of social justice for people when even the people themselves heedlessly and thoughtlessly rushed pellmell into folly, and when they did not understand the gallant fight he was making. He made a lone, single-handed battle, and it must have been wearing and difficult. It isn't human nature to court ill will and criticism. George Norris is a gentle man, a kindly man, a friendly and a neighborly man. He gave up friends for his ideals, he sacrificed companionship for duty, he refused to be deterred or turned aside from the path he followed when most men would have welcomed surcease gladly.

And what a glowing list of achievements stand to his credit.

What would have happened in Washington in those calloused, indifferent days when false prophets, bearing seducing incense, sought to lead the American people from the path of liberty, if George Norris had not been on the job? It was Norris who arose to challenge them. It was Norris who took rebuff after rebuff. It was Norris who fought on and on when those who should have been following him in the charge deserted him. It was Norris, in ringing and impassioned words, who held back the common enemy, put fear in its heart, and finally forced it to precipitate retreat. He was in the thick of the Teapot Dome fight. He was on his feet whenever selfish interests sought to exploit and rob the public of its natural resources. He was battling constantly for human welfare, and no voice carried greater authority, commanded greater respect from friend and enemy alike than that of the Nebraskan who has carried the banners for more than thirty years.

Down in the Tennessee valley ,they have named a village for George Norris. Today, no one speaks to the president of the United States and commands more attention than George Norris. At Urbana, they will confer upon him a medal for distinguished service on behalf of humanity. It is splendid these honors come to him in life. They should warm and gladden a man, who because of his prodigious labors, and because of what he was doing, has been very lonely. His place in history is secure and permanent. He is a great American, whose life and whose career should be an inspiration to American youth and to all generations seeking to attain human happiness.

JOHNSON IS SURPRISED.

GEN. HUGH JOHNSON, national NRA administrator, was quoted by newspaper reporters in Omaha and Kansas City as having expressed amazement at the reception given him and the president's recovery program in the states of the middle west. "This part of the country is showing better co-operation than any other," he said at Omaha, and in Kansas City he said: "If I had known the opposition was no stronger than what I find it to be I certainly would have remained in Washington."

Any informed person could have told General Johnson just what he learned from observation, but is perhaps is just as well that he came and saw for himself. The east "eats up" news of the farm strike, because it is so different from the kind of strike they have been accustomed to in that industrial region. For that reason the people in that section of the country have been led to believe that the entire agricultural area is indulging in violence, whereas the militant "strikers" have been practically confined to a small portion of western Iowa, tiny corners of South Dakota and Minnesota and portions of Illinois and Wisconsin.

And while a comparatively small number of farmers are dissatisfied with the progress being made by the president in his recovery program, the residents of the towns and cities are overwhelmingly behind him. Here, as in the east, the critics are confined almost exclusively to two classes. The first of these is made up of hidebound partisans, who would have the administration fall down, no matter what the cost in misery and suffering might be to the people of the country. Happily not all, nor even a majority of republicans are included in this group, for most people of all parties recognize the fact that progress has been made and they see better things coming.

The other body of opponents are so from purely mercenary motives. They realize that they are no longer to be permitted to pursue their own course regardless of the public welfare, but that they must conform to rules having for their purpose the greatest good to the greatest number. This is contrary to their ideas of "liberty," so they are militantly against the program. Their number was comparatively insignificant to begin with and few have since joined their ranks.

FENTON AND ALCATRAZ.

MANY Nebraskans will hope that Billy Fenton decides to remain in his post as warden of the Nebraska penitentiary. It is a flattering recognition which comes to him in the form of appointment by the department of justice to become warden of the federal prison at Alcatraz island in San Francisco bay.

In view of the recently announced plans of the government to make that prison the institution in which criminals of the most vicious and irredeemable type are to be placed, there could not be better evidence of a confidence in the ability of Warden Fenton to handle a tough job.

Billy Fenton ranks at the top. He has been in continuous service as a warden of a penal institution longer than any other man in the United States. He stepped into his job when the prison was in chaotic state, and within a short time had reorganized and reformed it completely. For twenty years, he has directed and supervised the handling of hundreds of desperate men in the most efficient manner. He has done it humanly and scores of those who made mistakes will remember the warden with the deepest gratitude, for he rekindled in them ambition, industry, and a desire for useful citizenship.

The new post tendered him carried with it a much more attractive salary than he could expect in his present place. Whether he goes or whether he concludes to remain here, his friends, and they are many, will take pride in his remarkable record and in the work he has carried on so splendidly.

AT THE DRIVERS' WAILING WALL.

WE'VE had farm marches, communistic marches, unemployed marches and other processions of protest in various cities these last few years, but wait until the auto drivers of the state feel the effects of the latest edict of the state supreme court.

Without disrespect to that tribunal, and without suggesting error in its ruling, we cannot but visualize the agony, yea the terror with which drivers must view the ruling that the passenger not only may but must do "back-seat" driving.

The case involved a woman riding with her husband when the car he was driving collided with another machine. She sued the pilot of the other auto for damages, but the court ruled that she should have cautioned her mate to pull up on the gas.

If Hoover had produced his "two cars in every garage," the problem would be simple. Everyone could drive alone. Since that promise didn't pan out, relief must be sought elsewhere.

Perhaps a dual control system like airplanes have would help. If Friend Wife's counsel got on the nerves of Pilot Husband, he could tell her in gentle voice to practice what she preached.

Or, since the liability is joint, perhaps the responsibilities should be divided in the manner of a hook and ladder fire truck—let the husband steer the front wheels and the wife the back wheels, or vice versa.

But donning the prophetic veil, we foresee the entirely new procedure of seemingly deaf drivers or pilots whose vocal counter-attack will quell revolt, court-defined duties to the contrary notwithstanding.

KHAKI MARCHING BOYS.

EVERY Armistice day serves as a reminder of a task as yet unfinished. It was a heroic sacrifice youth made in 1917 and 1918. They did it proudly and joyously. They felt they were underwriting civilization. Statesmanship failed them.

But the task is no less real, and no less imperative than it was then. It is difficult to believe that a world could be so filled with flaming nationalism as it is now. There is a menace in that. There is a danger in the poverty and destitution so general throughout the world. War springs from social injustice, from wretched human beings, from empty stomachs. War has its roots in the things which are material. The most adequate steps to avert war are those which elevate standards of living and add to common happiness and contentment.

THE PRESIDENT DICKERS WITH LITVINOFF.

THE news sharks of New York and Washington who were going to have an agreement for Russian recognition by the United States government fixed up right off the bat as soon as Maxim Litvinoff arrived now find it necessary to revise their predictions and put the event a week ahead. They discover that President Roosevelt, who initiated the negotiations, is determined to have a thorough discussion and explicit understanding with the Russian envoy on all matters involved in the proposed resumption of diplomatic relations before any pact is signed.

That is not only characteristic of Mr. Roosevelt but it is eminently logical and sensible. Nothing should be left unadjusted which might later become a source of discord in our future dealings with the soviet government. Whatever subjects there are which might produce irritation later had better be talked over now and settled in one way or another. The conversations, of course, are being conducted in a friendly way, but Mr. Roosevelt can be depended upon to see that American interests are fully protected in whatever compact may be arrived at.

In all probability, the United States would have granted recognition to the Moscow regime several years ago except for the feeling that soviet assurances could not be accepted at face value, even when put into writing, and that the setting up of a Russian embassy at Washington would be equivalent to giving free rein to communistic agitators in this country.

That probably was true at one time, but the Stalin government has apparently reached the conclusion that it has too much to look after at home to be wasting time and energy in attempting to coerce other nations into embracing bolshevism. There is every evidence that the ambitious campaign to sovietize the whole world has been dropped. In fact, it now looks as though Russia wants to cultivate the friendship and good will of both Europe and America so that in case of war with Japan she will not have the weight of world public opinion—what Bismark called "the imponderables"—turned against her in the struggle.

On our part, we are committed to the traditional policy that it is not the business of the United States to dictate to other countries what form of government they should have. We do not like the dictatorial setups that have been established in Italy, Germany, Poland, and some of the lesser western European nations; nor are we enamored of the fondness of South Americans and Central American republics and of Cuba for frequent revolutions; but we nevertheless maintain amicable relations with their de facto governments at all times.

So long as Russia continued to play the role of an international mad dog, the United States was justified in holding aloof from having anything to do with Moscow. Now that she is willing to live and let live on a basis of mutual good will, we no longer have any good reason to withhold recognition.

President Roosevelt, however, will be fully supported by the citizenship of the nation in holding out for satisfactory terms of trade exchange, payment of just debts, and abstention from pernicious agitation before entering into a specific agreement. This he doubtless intends to do.

QUESTION.

What is the exact meaning of the text, "The wages of sin is death"?

ANSWER.

Exactly what it states. The basic significance of death is separation. It separates the soul from the body. Sin separates the sinner from his better self and his personality from its Creator. The lazar houses and hospitals are the receiving depots for the debris of sin's wreckage of the body. Those who minister in these places know too well what fearful ravages are inflicted on that beautiful temple by the transgressing soul which inhabits it.

The volcanic outpourings of the transgressors, the woe and desolation they spread abroad for themselves and their fellow men and women, the useless remorse and tragedy following on their acts, emphasize St. Paul's solemn declaration. No grief deserves such pity as that which is expressed in the saddest of all confessions, "It might have been otherwise."

In many a refuge for the mentally afflicted you may see a melancholy being pacing to and fro with rapid strides, lost to everything around him, wringing his hands and muttering to himself. He is the dread type of what is called hell, incarcerated in a spiritual solitary confinement with his bitter memories of betrayed purposes and shattered hopes. Hearts he has made to mourn, eyes he has suffused with needless tears or filled with horror return to haunt this slave to remorse.

Whatever loose thinkers may say concerning the gloomy recitals of preachers about the violation of God's laws, they have never yet surpassed sin's actual terrors and punishments for the guilty. The great apostle had both reason and experience for his support when he wrote the scripture you quote.

QUESTION.

Indianapolis, Ind.

What do you advise a young minister to do in this day of doubt and desertion of religion?

ANSWER.

Just what the Duke of Wellington proposed when the battle of Waterloo kas at its crisis: "Pound away," said that iron-souled chieftain; "we'll see who can pound the longest." "Hold fast till I come," is the watchword of the church. It was her policy in the beginning. The boldest imageries were employed to strengthen her confidence. Her apostolic leaders never questioned the triumph of her risen Lord. Surrounded by foes without and fears within, they sang of His glorious victory over sin and death when Caesar's gardens were lit with the flaming bodies of Christian mertyrs.

Here and now we observe, as you say, that many are rejecting the spiritualities of life or failing to make them real in their own lives. Yet there have been periods of similar reaction when love was cold and faith was dim. Whole communities professing discipleship fell away from New Testament teachings and standards. The world's enticements, threats and pressure, its superstitions and false gods, its appeals to the passions and the pride of the multitudes, account in part for the strange desertions you lament. Of course they are followed by loss and suffering on a tremendous scale, and end in disillusionment and despair.

But our duty is manifest. We have always to remember the injunctions of our Captain: "Hold fast till I come"; and "Hold fast that which thou hast, that no man take thy crown." Faith must face its conflicts in every age, and it is wrong to suppose that ours are more stern and unyielding than those of former times. We cannot ignore the fact that there is much to puzzle us. But those who reject religion on intellectual grounds are a small minority compared with the hosts who refrain from accepting its requirements because of sheer lack of courage. Preach a valiant gospel which challenges the best in your hearers and leave the rest to the God of our salvation.

QUESTION.

Little Rock, Ark.

Whom do you think God considers the better Christian, the man who attends church regularly but is uncharitable in word and deed, or the man who remains at home and at all times tries to do his duty toward his neighbors?

ANSWER.

Probably you have already answered this question in your own way and write me for confirmation. There can be no dispute that religion is a life within which controls and directs our actual behavior. But the fact that some sincerely good persons do not attend church is not a proof that their goodness is due to their non-attendance. They are what they are despite that neglect.

Moreover, if all people followed their example and the churches were abolished, do you believe public morals would improve? The religious atmosphere in which your virtuous nonattendants flourish is not traceable to the state, nor to education, nor to science, nor to art, or yet to literature. All human institutions and pursuits depend on a superior source for their upright conduct, and the church is the organized agency of that source.

Nor can it be denied that the noblest character, the most unselfish service, and the most complete devotion to worthy causes are found in the churches. They harbor occasional hypocrites who carefully conceal their villainy under a mask of piety. But that counts for no more against the churches as a whole than counterfeit coinage does against genuine currency. You do not reject the latter because of the former. Neither should you argue that a single bad habit is a good one because a good man is guilty of it. The man you mention would be a still better and more influential individual if he attended church.

Diet and Health

SKIN ERUPTION MAY RESULT FROM WEARING WRIST WATCH

We have previously noted the fact that a skin eruption behind the ears and over the bridge of the nose is likely to result from spectacle frames made of "white gold." The cause for this is the presence of of nickel in the white gold alloy.

Dr. Clendening

The skin eruption does not occur in all persons who wear white gold spectacle frames, but apparently only in sensitive persons or in those who perspire considerably. It can be prevented, of course, by having another form of spectacle frame or, if people do not wish to discard their white gold frames, by pulling small rubber tubes over the ear pieces.

These cases were first reported by Dr. E. S. Lain.

Another cause of this kind of poisoning is the wearing of nickel-plated wrist watches. The eruption in this case, of course occurs on the skin of the wrist.

A recent case was that of a man who had a severe crusted eruption behind his ears and on the side of his nose, exactly where the spectacle frame came in contact with the skin. This man had worn tortoise-shell spectacles until six months before when he changed to white gold frames. Within four months he noticed that the rims of the spectacles were beginning to tarnish, and a week later the eruption appeared on his face.

The same patient also had a nickel-plated wrist watch which he had worn for the first time ten months before. At the end of five months an eruption appeared on the back of the right wrist, and the patient noticed that a good deal of the nickel-plate had become worn. After discontinuing wearing the watch the eruption promptly disappeared. A month later he again wore the watch and for the second time the eruption appeared on his wrist.

The eruption does not always disappear promptly after discontinuing wearing the articles containing nickel. In fact in this particular case the eruption on the wrist did not disappear for three months after he had stopped wearing the wrist watch. Under treatment with X-ray however, it promptly disappeared.

QUESTION.

W. S.: "Some time ago you wrote in an article that direct sun rays were detrimental to patients with tuberculosis of the lungs. My teacher in biology told us the other day that the sun was beneficial in these cases. Can you tell me more about it?"

ANSWER.

The confusion is natural because the rays of the sun are beneficial in every other form of tuberculosis except tuberculosis of the lungs. This information is not well known even to physicians, but physicians who specialize in the treatment of tuberculosis of the lungs are generally agreed that the sun is detrimental to this particular form of tuberculosis.

I LAUGH AT GOLD.

I laugh at gold! It cannot buy
A line of Shakespeare ready-made to quote.
A man must on the page set mind and eye
Before one phrase can issue from his throat.

I laugh at gold! It cannot tell
Its proud possessor why the sun's eclipse.
Nor teach him how to write his letters well,
Nor check the faulty sentence on his lips.

I laugh at gold! It cannot hire
Wisdom to serve when problems grave arise.
Fools may be rich, but still their need is dire
When comes the great occasion to be wise.

Burgess Bedtime Stories

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Reddy Is Laughed At

A tongue too smooth will sometimes trip
And let some hidden purpose slip.
—Old Mother Nature.

Peter Rabbit wanted some of the carrots in Farmer Brown's garden. Reddy Fox knew this. Reddy on his part wanted Peter Rabbit and Peter knew this. So it was a case of wits against wits, each trying to outwit the other.

Reddy happened along by the dear Old Briar-patch quite as if by chance. He knew just where to look for Peter Rabbit. You see there is a certain tangle of brambles and briars under which Peter can be safe yet peep out to see what is going on outside the dear Old Briar-patch. There he delights to sit and sometimes to nap. And there when he is at home he may almost always be found.

It was there that Reddy Fox looked for him and found him. "Good evening, Peter," said Reddy in his pleasantest voice. "How goes the thrift these days?"

"Not so good," replied Peter honestly.

Reddy appeared to be surprised. At least he pretended to appear so. "I'm sorry to hear that," said he. "What seems to be the trouble?"

"The trouble is,' replied Peter, "that I don't eat thrifty food.

"Thrifty food!" exclaimed Reddy. "Who ever heard of thrifty food?"

Peter grinned. "What I mean,' he explained, "is that I do not eat the kind of food that I can store up for the winter and thus be thrifty. All that clover and grass I cut spoiled.'

"Too bad. Too bad. I'm sorry to hear it, Peter," replied Reddy. "How about the carrots? Don't tell me that they spoiled."

"No," said Peter. "You see I haven't brought any carrots home yet. I guess you were right when you told me that I should have begun with carrots instead of with clover and tender grasses.'

"Of course, you should," replied Reddy with great promptness. "But it isn't too late now. Farmer Brown hasn't taken up those carrots yet."

'How do you know that?" asked Peter.

"I was just over there,' replied Reddy honestly. "I happened to be passing that way and when I do that I always look around there. I've caught more than one Mouse over there. But these days Mrs. Reddy and I do most of our hunting over in the Green Forest and around the Old Pasture. We seldom get over this way. By the way, tomorrow night Mistress Moon will be at her best. It will be a wonderful chance for you to harvest a supply of those carrots. Mrs. Reddy and I are planning a hunt a long way from here, the other side of the Green Forest. We have had word that there is good hunting there."

"Good evening, Peter," said Reddy in his pleasantest voice.

"I believe that rascal was telling the truth for once," aid Peter to Mrs. Peter after Reddy had left. "He likes to travel in the moonlight, and I wouldn't be a bit surprised if he and Mrs. Reddy really are planning just such a hunt as he said they were. The old fraud thinks that I will believe just the opposite from what he says. He thinks that I will think that he wants me to go for those carrots tomorrow night and that instead I will go the next morning in daylight. That is what he thinks and he or Mrs. Reddy or both will be hiding somewhere to catch me."

"So what?" asked Mrs. Peter.

"So I'll fool them. I'll go over to that garden tomorrow night in the moonlight just as Reddy suggested," replied Peter.

Instantly timid little Mrs. Peter was filled with alarm. "Supposing you are wrong in your guess, what then?" said she.

Peter chuckled. "I won't be wrong," he replied confdiently. "I know that red-coated scamp too well not to guess exactly what he is plannng. You wait and see. I'll bring you that carrot I didn't bring today."

From time to time Peter chuckled as he thought of Reddy Fox. He was laughing at Reddy.

The next story: "Reddy Hides His Feelings."

Outrageous Fortune

by Patricia Wentworth

SYNOPSIS: Jim Randall finds, in a secret cache at Hale Place, his boyhood home, the Van Berg emeralds. Evidence points to the fact that he has stolen them, yet he has no memory either of theft, or of anything else that happened in the last six weeks. The emeralds are snatched from his hand; he grapples with the intruder, chases him to the station, and loses him. Now he has gone to Ledlington to try to pick up the trail. He meets Min, sister-in-law of Nesta Riddell. Nesta not only says he stole the emeralds, but that he is her husband. Min tells Jim she has not known him long.

"Nesta must have known her own husband!"

Chapter 40.

IMPORTANT NEWS.

"We're not old friends?"

"Oh, no," said Min again.

"Min— when did you meet me first?"

He got a round blue stare.

"Oh, you know."

"I'm afraid I don't. Shall we turn and walk back again? I don't suppose anyone knows us, but you never can tell. And now—when did you meet me first?"

"Oh, but you do know that—you can't have forgotten so soon!"

"So soon?"

"It's not a week," said Min. "You can't have forgotten!"

Jim felt a rising excitement.

"Not a week? Do you mean you never saw me before Nesta brought me from that hospital at Elston?"

"No, never." she looked up at him with an air of childlike candor.

"Then it was Nesta who told you I was Jim Riddell?"

"But she couldn't have made a mistake. She must have known—her own husband—"

Jim asked abruptly.

"Hadn't Tom met me either?"

"Oh no."

So that was that. Jim felt as if a heavy paving-stone had been lifted off his back. If it was only Nesta who identified him as Jim Riddell, he was prepared to lay very long odds that he wasn't Jim Riddell.

They reached the end of the colonnade once more.

"I must'nt keep you," he said.

Min blushed again.

"Oh, won't you please come back with me and just see her? You don't know what mayn't come of it if you go on staying away. Won't you please come back?"

That very delicate extra sense which sometimes warns, and sometimes discerns things of which we have no evidence, became suddenly active in Jim. Instead of saying good-bye he turned and began to walk slowly back along the colonnade.

Min, flushed and encouraged, moved beside him with small quick steps. Married people oughtn't to live separate, mother always said. . . . She found she was saying this out loud:

"Mother always says—"

"Well?" said Jim. That odd unclassified sense was alert and waiting.

"I don't hardly like to."

"Oh come —you were going to tell me what your mother says. I'm sure you can manage that."

"Mother always says married folk should stick close, because if they don't—"

"Yes—if they don't?"

"There's room for a third between them."

Jim got a hunch.

"My dear Min, are you trying to warn me?"

They had reached the corner again. Min stopped and faced him, nodding.

"You are!"

She nodded again solemnly.

"All right, we'd better take another turn, and you shall tell me all about it. Who's the man?"

"I don't know if I ought."

Jim didn't know either. He only knew that he was bound to get it out of her if he could. He said gravely.

"You've got to tell me."

She twisted the handles of her basket.

"I've never been a mischief-maker."

"You won't be making mischief."

She gave him a frightened glance curiously mingled with virtuous pride.

"Throwing stones up at her window, and long past midnight!" she said.

"A man threw stones up at Nesta's window last night?"

Min Gulped and nodded again.

"I heard the pebbles against the glass, and I saw him under the other window—Nesta's. And he said her name—just Nesta, not Mrs. Riddell at all. And then he said 'Come down'."

"I see. Then Nesta went out?"

Min nodded.

"I hoped it was you, and that you were making it up."

"When did you find out that it wasn't me?"

"When she came back. She opened the door and came in. It was beginning to get light, and I could see enough to know that it wasn't you."

"What happened?" said Jim.

"She went to the gate again, and gave him something."

"She gave him something? You're sure it wasn't the other way about?"

"I think it was money," said Min.

He was wondering whether it was the Van Berg emeralds that had changed hand s over the gate of Happicot at three o'clock in the morning. For this was what he thought his hunch had done for him— he thought it had brought him hot on the track of is burglar.

The train he had missed and last night's burglar had caught, would have reached Ledlington in very nice time to allow of Nesta being serenaded with a handful of pebbles.

But in that case the man who had taken the emeralds must have known exactly what it was that he had snatched in the Blue Room. And he hadn't come there blind He had come there to get the emeralds.

"You heard something?"

Min nodded.

"Nesta said, 'It's all I've got'—and something about keeping money in the house."

"Is that all you heard?"

She shook her head.

"No—he said—at least he said a lot more than what I'm telling you—but all mumbly like as if he'd got something in his mouth."

Jim restrained himself.

"What did he say?"

"He said, 'Don't be late'," said Min with a gasp.

Don't be late. . . . And he spoke as if he had something in his mouth. Perhaps it was a gap in his upper jaw—perhaps it wasn't. Jim's head whirled with possibilities.

"Anything more?" he asked.

"He went off, and she came in."

He got no more out of her than that.

At the lower end of the colonnade they parted.

He crossed the square and went into the library.

"Misleading Lady" Is First Wesleyan Play

Nebraska Wesleyan opens its dramatic season with "The Misleading Lady," Saturday evening, Nov. 18, at the Wesleyan auditorium. GOOGE FAVORED BY HEALTH BODY

City Council Asked To Name Mississippian Superintendent.

Dr. Hohlen Claims Harm "Double-Crossing" as Councilman Balks.

Dr. James T. Googe of Jackson, Miss., will be recommended to the city council by the public health advisory board, for appointment to succeed Dr. M. F. Arnholt as superintendent of health. Decision to nominate Dr. Googe was unanimously voted Friday evening at a meeting of the board at the city hall.

The meeting was marked by a flareup between A. C. Harm, head of the public safety department, of which the health department is a part, and Dr. K. S. J. Hohlen, who charged Harm with "double crossing the board." Harm denied the charge.

According to Dr. Hohlen, Harm previously told members of the advisory council that he favored the nomination of Dr. Googe. "Now you say you will not vote for his appointment," Dr. Hohlen said.

Harm said "I have always opposed an outside man. I have told the newspaper men that, and have been quoted by them to that effect. I did not say I wanted Googe."

"You did say so," Dr. Hohlen retorted. "You gave this board to understand you favored Dr. Googe. Now you turn around and say you will not vote for him when his name is presented to the city council."

Commissioner Harm's refusal to support the nomination of the advisory board will undoubtedly complicate matters when the recommendation reaches the city council. Harm has stated he will not recommend a man for whom he will not cast a favorable vote. This places him in the position of being compelled to introduce a resolution rejecting the recommendation of the advisory council.

If the commissioners vote down Harm's rejection resolution, some member of the council will then have to introduce a resolution accepting the nomination and the council wil have to pass it over Mr. Harm's head.

The report of the personnel committee was read by Dr. W. E. Rowe. It said that in the opinion of the members of the committee, Dr. Googe is "fully competen to handle the position for which we are nominating him."

"The interests of the city also were considered," he report said, "and the committee believed these would be best served by dgoing outside of Lincoln for a superintendent. None of the local applicants seem to measure up to the requirements." The report also said that "in the judgment of the committee, Dr. Googe will be able to iron out the difficulties requiring diplomacy.

Other members of the board who had met Dr. Googe voiced similar beliefs. All were favorably impressed by him, when they met him last Monday and Tuesday.

The motion approving the committee's report was made by Dr. Hohlen after his argument with Harm.

Understanding on Russ Recognition Drawing Nearer

Roosevelt and Litvinoff In Intimate Chat Until Midnight.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11—(AP)—Friendly, but serious, conversations between President Roosevelt and Maxim Litvinoff today propelled the United States and Soviet Russia toward diplomatic kinship.

Official sources forecast announcement next week of an understanding on Russo-American recognition. Supporting this prediction were personal chats between Mr. Roosevelt and the Russian commissar adding up to more than four hours, and state department meetings which swelled the total discussions to more than ten hours.

Further conferences were declared to be "obvious" by William Bullitt, special assistant to Secretary Hull and an authority on Russian affairs. But just at present, no arrangements have been made for these meetings.

Meeting Lasts Till Midnight.

President Roosevelt's own white house study last night was the scene of the longest and most intimate exchange between the chief executive and Litvinoff. For three hours lasting until midnight, Russo-American issues were thoroughly reviewed. Bullitt was the only other official present.

Before the conference, the president told newsmen there would be nothing to report afterward except progress. Bullitt, when leaving the white house with the commissar, recalled that statement and reiterated it.

Litvinoff wore the smile the capital has come to regard as a fixture. In reply to questions as he left the executive mansion, he said, "conversations with Mr. Roosevelt are always pleasant."

Bullitt said no conference had been arranged for today.

Claire Windsor Gets New Trial

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 11—(AP)—The $75,000 judgment awarded Mrs. Marian Y. Read of Oakland, against Claire Windsor, actress, over the love of Alfred C. Read, jr., former broker, has been set aside and a new trial granted the actress.

In a brief opinion given late yesterday, Superior udge J. P. Sproul declared the verdict was so grossly excessive and unreasonable as to indicate the jurors had been swayed by passion and prejudice.

The judge stated also that new evidence had been discovered by the defendant in the suit and declared that "the ends of justice would best be served by granting a new trial."

Moderate Late Rally In Stock Market Brings Gains Of Fractions To Around 2 Points

Share Trading Is Largely Listless

Caution is Watchword; Transactions Mostly By Professionals.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11—(AP)—After mulling about listlessly during most of today's brief session, stocks rallied moderately in the final half-hour. Gains of fractions to around 2 points predominated at the close. Caution was the watchword of most traders, however, and transactions were accounted for largely by professionals. Transfers approximated 45,000 shares.

With the grain markets closed for Armistice day, equities had little inspiration aside from an advance of 12 cents an ounce in the domestic gold price to $33.32. London also lifted its gold rate about as much. The dollar gyrated erratically. Sterling, after losing some 7 cents in early dealings, cancelled virtually all of the decline. French francs also sagged and recovered. Bonds were somewhat irregular, although the federal list displayed rallying tendencies.

Shares of U. S. Smelting got up more than 3 points and gains of around 2 were held by Western Union, Case, Allied Chemical, American Telephone and National Distillers. Others up fractionally to a point or more included U. S. Steel, American Smelting, Chrysler, New York Central, General Motors, International Nickel, Patino Mines, Cerro de Pasco, Sears Roebuck, Santa Fe, Goodyear, Johns-Manville and McIntyre Porcupine. Vulcan Detinning, usually inactive, came into demand for a gain of 6 points.

While Wall street apparently was doing most of its thinking in dollar-devaluation terms, some observers voiced the opinion that equities will be less inclined to discount forward developments than they did last spring. Unless drastic monetary inflation seems assured, it was said, stock and commodity markets may show more of an inclination to reflect business improvement, gains in earnings, dividend resumptions and other favorable influences as they occur.

Industrial analysts were none too cheerful over recent major business indices which, during the past week, registered a moderate decline. There was some pick-up in retail trade noted, however, and trade reviews forecast Christmas sales would show a substantial improvement over those of the previous year.

There were many conjectures regarding the dividend action which will be taken by American Telephone next week. In some quarters it was estimated that the company's net income for the full year would total between $7.30 and $7.50 a share, although earnings of the system, including Western Electric company's deficit, will range between $5.50 and $5.75 a share. Most investment services expect the company will again dip into surplus and declare the regular quarterly disbursement of $2.25 a share.

In early trading the British pound sterling showed a loss of 7 cents at $5 03½. French francs dropped .08½ of a cent to 6.18½ cents and Dutch guilders declined nearly a cent at 63.73 cents. Belgian belgas, Swiss francs, German marks and other European currencies were also reactionary.

Although the markets in London and Paris were closed for the holiday, the British advanced the price of gold 5½ pence to 130 shillings 1½ pence an ounce. Based on the London opening of sterling at $5.09, this was equivalent to about $33.12. The R.F.C. also advanced the domestic gold price 12 cents to $33.32 an ounce.

The financial sector exhibited much interest in reports from Washington that, because of the repeal of the prohibition amendment, the president probably would renounce four "recovery" taxes enacted to produce some $227,000,000 annually for financing the $3,300,000,000 public works program. These taxes are the additional levy of ½ cent a gallon on gasoline, a 5 per cent dividend tax, a capital stock tax and excess profits tax. New liquor taxes, it was said, would take the place of those to be repealed.

NEW YORK CURB REVIEW.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11—(AP)—Curb stocks drifted through a very dull week-end market today. Some of the usual favorites did not open until the session was well advanced and a few did not trade at all.

Numerous shares idled along with virtually no price changes. In this group were Electric Bond & Share, American Superpower, American Cynamid "B," Newmont Mining and Wright Hargreaves. Liquor issues were a trifle irregular, but too dull to afford much indication of a trend. Hiram Walker reacted slightly at times.

Aluminum of America ran up nearly 2 points on a few transfers and Tubize Chatillon was down a couple, also in light trading. Lake Shore Mines sagged about a point. Sherwin Williams likewise reacted.

NEW YORK BOND REVIEW.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11—(AP)—United States government bonds, whose recent weakness had had a depressing effect on the investment market, enjoyed a rally today coincident with early firmness of the dollar in foreign exchange dealings.

American currency reacted toward the close and its gains against European monies were largely lost, but the downturn found most of the government securities at substantially higher levels. On the other hand, foreign bonds, into which considerable switching had been done, softened.

The treasury 3¾s at one time were up a point and a half, while several other treasury listings showed extreme gains of major fractions. Liberty loans also firmed.

Many of the gilt edge domestic corporation loans participated in the better tone. American Telephone issues, Santa Fe general 4s, Chesapeake & Ohio 4½s, Duquesne 4s and Consolidated Gas 5½s were steady to firm. Thin markets existed for Pennsylvania general 4½s, Delaware & Hudson 4s, Great Northern 4½s and Northern Pacific 4s, which sagged under light offerings.

In the foreign division, Canada 4s, French 7½s, Italy 7s and Japan 5½s lost a point or more. German loans were about steady.

GRAIN NOTES

CHICAGO, Nov. 11—(AP)—Although sterling exchange was weaker, most of the scattered selling in yesterday's market was said by traders to have been induced by a desire on the part of operators to even up on the market because of the double holiday. With the New York exchanges open today, operators feared there might be unexpected developments.

Most traders reported that the profit taking in grains yesterday was a precautionary measure rather than any change in the bullish sentiment. The advance in gold prices and the weakness of government bonds was regarded by the trade as stimulating the desirability of investing in commodities. The advance in wheat prices, however, has not kept pace with that of gold since the R.F.C. started to set the price. Gold has advanced 11 3 per cent compared with 7 6 per cent for wheat, based on Thursday's closing price.

The market was not affected by the government's plan to keep corn on the farm by lending the producer 45 cents a bushel on the grain in cribs and Chicago handlers purchased 180,000 bushels to arrive from the country during the day. Shipping demand was fair.

Liverpool Grain Review.

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 11—(AP)—Wheat futures after a dull opening advanced ¼ of a pence due to unfavorable Australian corp reports. Lack of moisture in the Argentine, where temperatures were reported high, better demand for cash wheat and nervousness over the monetary situation also contributed to the advance. The closing was quiet with prices finishing at the highs of the day.

New York Cotton.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11—(AP)—COTTON—An opening decline in cotton today was followed by rallies on trade buying and covering which appeared to be influenced by a rally from the early decline in foreign exchange rates and the firmer tone of the stock market. December contracts after selling off to 9.75 at the start, rallied to 9.87, or 5 points net higher and closed at 9.82. The general market closed steady net 1 point lower to 1 point higher.

Car Strikes Woman With Baby In Arms

Mrs. Nellie Holland Seriously Injured While Crossing Street; Child Unhurt.

Struck by a car while carrying her year-old son across the street at Ninth and J, early Friday evening, Mrs. Nellie Holland, 36, 1839 O street, suffered a possibly fractured skull, a brain concussion and a severe laceration on the forehead, but the child escaped with slight bruises.

Attendants at St. Elizabeth's hospital said Saturday morning that Mrs. Holland spent a fairly restful night and seemed slightly improved. Dr. W. W. Carveth who examined the injured woman, stated that he believed her skull was fractured but would not know definitely until X-ray pictures were taken. Mrs. Holland was unconscious after the accident.

Elmer L. Schamp, 3640 Folsom street, driver of the car which struck Mrs. Holland, told police that he was driving north on Ninth street, and that the woman was crossing the street from the west. Schamp was released to appear at the county attorney's office Saturday morning.

C. A. McCloud, York, and Mrs. Viola J. Cameron, Omaha, republican national committee members from Nebraska, will be asked by progressives in the party to resign, according to George W. Kline, chairman of the Nebraska Progressive league. The league is initiating a nationwide movement to rid both parties of ultra-conservative leaders, Kline said.

Price Helps In Audit Douglas County Books

State Auditor W. B. Price spent two or three days at Omaha during the week, making a personal check of some accounts in the office of County Treasurer Otto Bauman, which is now undergoing its regular annual examination at the hands of the state auditor's men. The examination will require several weeks' time. Auditor Price was interested in shortening it by the elimination of unnecessary work, particularly on the accounts of the Omaha metropolitan utilities district, which the state examiners have already gone over in an independent investigation.

MYSTERY WOMAN IN KIDNAP CASE

Hamm, St. Paul Brewer, Names McFadden As One of Abductors.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 11—(AP)—A mystery woman in the Hamm kidnaping case today quickened interest in the trial of four Chicago gangsters, charged with abducting the millionaire St. Paul brewer, while court was in adjournment over the week-end.

William Hamm, Jr., star government witness, revealed a woman presumably was in the gang that held him hostage last June until $100,000 ransom was paid, when he took the stand yesterday in Judge M. M. Joyce's federal court.

Court adjourned Friday until Monday before Hamm had a chance to attempt a description of the woman, who, he said, was at the house when he and his captors drove up to the place, somewhere in Wisconsin about midnight last June 15.

Eddie "Father" McFadden, one of the defendants, was pointed out by Hamm as one of the men who shook his hand and compelled him to enter a closed car after accosting him near his brewery offices nearly five months ago.

speaking," decline to recognize an independent status between manufacturer and dealer.

The comptroller general, whose decisions generally are regarded as final, said that provisions of the automobile code appear to be binding on all members of the industry, but that there is nothing in the recovery act which forces any concern to sign it.

Wallace was in Des Moines, Ia., today, and in his absence aides indicated that the agriculture department will approve the low bid of the Maryland dealer within a few days, first ascertaining definitely, however whether government officials including those of the NRA have any complaint regarding observance of the code by the Ford company.

No actual violation of the code has been alleged against the Dearborn manufacturer by the government, Yesterday NRA received his wage and hour reports for the first six weeks of code operation, along with those of all other manufacturers, and found everything in order.

Johnson Comments.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Nov. 11—(AP.)—Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, said here today he believed Comptroller General McCarl had misinterpreted executive rulings with reference to codes in holding that Henry Ford is eligible to receive government contracts although Ford has refused to sign the automobile industrial agreement.

"As far as I know Mr. Ford is complying with the automobile code, but he has not signed it," Johnson said. "If he complies with it, then he probably would be eligible to receive government contracts."

"Of course, there is no law, it all depending on the president's ruling about compliance. That is a matter for President Roosevelt to determine."

LINCOLN VETS PARADE, HONOR HEROES OF WAR

of an American cemetery in France with its long rows of little white crosses. In the float of the Women's Relief corps, No. 10 of Farragut post, grizzled representatives of the G. A. R. drum corps sounded out a sturdy staccato on their instruments.

Bunting-decorated floats represented the United Spanish War Veterans and the V. F. W. of post 131. The familiar 40 and 8 box car, seen in almost every Lincoln parade for years, had its place in the procession.

Number of Bands Play.

Colorful uniforms of the drum corps of the Lincoln post of the American Legion added to the pageantry of the occasion. Bands in the parade included those of the university R. O. T. C., Babich's Boys band, Lincoln high school, Havelock high school and the V. F. W.

For the stadium program, the University of Nebraska football team was brought from resting quarters prior to the game, to share in the honors of the Armistice day ceremony. The military activities were momentarily suspended while university cheer leaders took the command and led the long line of R. O. T. C. cadets in a series of cheers for the team.

Before the ceremony of the rifle salute and the sounding of taps, the R. O. T. C. formed in a long khaki-colored line along the front of the west stadium, facing east. Massed colors were placed at one side of the firing squad, composed of representatives of the American Legion, V. F. W., Spanish-American War Veterans and the national guard. Auxiliaries of the various military organizations, holding small American flags, stood to the rear of the squad.

Boy Captures Attention.

As the massed bands paraded across the gridiron field following this ceremony, practically the entire attention of the crowd was captured by 6-year-old Phillip Spoerry, son of Capt. G. W. Spoerry, who stepped proudly alongside the drum major in front of the band members. Young Phillip was smartly dressed in a diminutive drum major's costume of his own.

Officers of the R. O. T. C. units presented themselves to their commanders at the reviewing stand. All organizations then passed in review before the stand bringing the ceremony to a close. In this pageant, the Tassels, N. U. girls' pep club, carried the university World war service flag.

Just prior to the opening of the Nebraska-Kansas football game, a memorial service for University of Nebraska war dead was held at the stadium.

Other activities of the day included a luncheon for the Last Man's club at the Lincoln hotel, together with various homecoming luncheons of University of Nebraska fraternities and sororities. The Last Man's club, composed of Lincoln doctors who served together in the medical corps overseas during the war, will also hold a dinner at the home of Dr. George H. Walker at 6 o'clock Saturday evening.

Stag Party at Fair Grounds.

There will be a free feed and entertainment to all service men at the 4-H building at 6:30 o'clock, with an army kitchen style supper, followed by a program of boxing, singing, games, etc., in charge of the Lincoln 40 and 8 Membership in a veterans organizations is not required. Members of V. F. W., post 1450, who do not attend this entertainment, have been invited to an Armistice night party at the home of Fred Fassett, 425 South Twenty-seventh street.

Homecoming parties, dinners, and dances at University chapter houses, hotels and country clubs are on the evening program.

Deny Contact Made.

SAN JOSE, Cal., Nov. 11—(AP)—Reports that kidnapers had made contacts with members of the A. J. Hart family demanding payment of $40,000 ransom for release of the son, Brooke Hart, 22, were vehemently denied by all investigators and members of the family today.

Reed Vetterli, head of the bureau of investigations, department of justice, San Francisco, said late last night:

"Up to the time I left the Hart home a few minutes ago there had been no contact whatsoever with the abductors of Brooke Hart. If here had been such contact, in any manner, I would know about it.

The father was as emphatic in denial as were Chief of Police J. N. Black, Sheriff William J. Emig, members of the family and close friends who had been with them all day and evening.

The only communication received, according to all, is the telephhone message from San Francisco about 10:30 p. m., Thursday. In this message, Miss Mariam Hart, 19-year old sister of Brooke, was informed of the ransom price of $40,000, that Brooke was well and that further instructions would follow. The girl was warned not to inform the police.

Cochran Gets Report On Loup River Plans

State Engineer Roy Cochran Saturday studied a report from R. H. Willis, chief of the state bureau of irrigation, on Loup river power and irrigation projects. Cochran said he had not had time to go over the report, but will submit an outline to Governor Bryan, who this week requested the federal power commission to delay action on the Middle and Columbus projects pending a survey of the waters.

The camel corps of Bikanir was perhaps the most colorful military unit that took part in the World war. Especially fitted for work on the desert of Egypt, where the camel corps was first organized, it has nevertheless served beyond its own habitat on occasion, and with distinction.

The corps was organized in 1884 for the Gordon relif expedition, after which it was disbanded. Later a new camel corps was recruited from Sudanese and Egyptian sources as a permanent unit in camel corps, which is maintained by the maharajah of Bikanir fought on foreign soil in China in 1900 when without its camels, it took part in the expedition there.

Illustrated above is one unit of the camel battery consisting of two camels, one of which carries the gun, and the other two men who operate it.

The old adage that practice makes perfect was demonstrated aptly in America's first engagement in the World war. The place was Baccarat, in the Lorraine sector; the time, March 9, 1918; tithe object, to take over a section occupied by the Central Powers. The Americans, preparing for this attack duplicated in detail behind their own lines the section they were to capture. On this practice field" each day for two weeks they rehearsed capturing this territory until they became so familiar with the layout that when they did go over they were able to win the skirmish without a hitch.

FOOD INDUSTRIES ADVISORY BOARD FOR U. S. IS OUT of the board, "could make an explanation if any is necessary." Deupree is president of Proctor & Gamble Co.

The board was organized by Charles J. Brand, former co- administrator of the farm act, who resigned in August after his activity had been criticized.

Late in September the board through Colby M. Chester of New York, chairman of its executive committee, in a letter to Peek pledged the co-operation of the major food industries to the farm administration in an effort to raise prices, but indicated they had no sympathy for price-fixing.

Gigantic Code Abandoned.

Since that time the farm administration has sought to work out codes covering separate branches of the food industry and apparently has abandoned an earlier proposal for a gigantic master food code which had originally been scheduled for legalization by November 1.

Members of the board, selected to represent various branches of the $12,000,000 food industry, included Earl D. Babst, New York; James Ford Bell, Minneapolis; John A. Hartford, New York; A. T. Johnson, New York; Francis E. Kamper, Atlanta; Joseph H Kline, Cleveland; Albert H. Morrill, Cincinnati; Walworth Pierce, Boston; and G. F. Swift, Chicago.

NATIONS PAUSE TO PAY TRIBUTE TO WAR HEROES

the army and navy and the city and state flocking to participate in the observance.

President Honors Unknown Soldier.

In Washington the president and Mrs. Roosevelt turned toward the tomb of the unknown soldier to place flowers there.

England's observance of Armistice day centered around the cenotaph in London where the Prince of Wales acting for King George, planned to place a wreath in memory of Britain's war dead, while thousands stood in silence.

France mustered a brilliant military display in Paris. A ceremony at the tomb of the unknown soldier under the Arc de Triumphe attended by President Lebrun and members of his cabinet headed the program. American war veterans in Paris also marked the day.

Italy, which celebrated Armistice day a week ago, the anniversary of the ending of the war on the Italo-Austrian front, held another celebration, this time in honor of King Victor Emmanuel's sixty-fourth birthday. Every city and town was decorated with flags and banners.

First Armistice Day in Mexico.

Canada marked the anniversary with observances in virtually every city and town in the dominion.

Mexico observed Armistice day for the first time since the war ended, the government decreeing two minutes of silence at 10:37 a. m.

The Irish Free State began its celebration last night with a noisy demonstration in Dublin culminating with the burning of two British Union Jacks on the college green.

Germany and Austria do not observe Armistice day, but both had special events before them. Germany an election tomorrow, and Austria the fifteenth anniversary of the founding of the republic.

Tribute Paid to Unknown.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11—(AP)—Silence fell for two minutes around the tomb of the unknown soldier at Arlington at 11 o'clock this morning, while President Roosevelt and a distinguished audience stood with bowed and bared heads, to symbolize the national respect for him who gave his life in France.

Commemorating the Armistice of 15 years ago today, a wreath of pink crysanthemums was placed on the tomb by the president's naval aide, Capt. Walter N. Vernou. Next to it yellow chrysanthemums were set by Mrs. Roosevelt.

An army bandsman blew taps and the brief ceremony was over.

The presidential party left before a special legion observance was given, in which Edward A. Hayes—the national commander—linked the spirit of the unknown with what he said was needed in the recovery struggle of these times.

The crevice was boarded up and filled with rags as protection for the boiler. The engineer who discovered the fire was unable to say how it began.

The sprinkler system began functioning shortly after the blaze was discovered and work at the plant was not interrupted.

markets. We do not favor such a plan," Wallace said.

"The governors' suggestions were rejected not so much because we considered them too expensive, as was reported, but because we did not consider them workable.

Reasons for Rejecting Plan.

"They advocated that each farmer be licensed and given a quota of the amount of produce he could sell. That would be a very easy way to handle the situation if the formers were ready for the vast amount of policing it would require. I do not believe they are."

Such a far reaching system of compulsion, exacted upon farmers who have been accustomed to freedom of action, would be "worse than the prohibition law," in the opinion of Wallace.

There is only one answer to the agricultural problem for those waging the farm strike—higher prices. We are going to get the higher prices."

The secretary predicted that loans of 45 cents a bushel on corn would be available to farmers "in about ten days." He believes this will have the effect of raising corn prices, temporarily at least, to near 45 cents.

Plock's Long Run Clinches Lincoln Victory

Sprint to Touchdown Saves Red and Black From Defeat by Crete

That ancient wheeze, "the game is never over until the final pistol shot," was most emphatically applicable to Friday afternoon's proceedings at the Lincoln high oval when Marvin Plock, dazzling Lincoln high speedster, electrified a crowd of 1,200 by sprinting 60 yards to a touchdown. Plock's feat erased a two-point Crete margin, which had stood up for three quarters, and enabled the Red and Black to defeat the Cardinals by a score of 6-2. Only three minutes of play remained and Crete's points, coming as a result of a Lincoln high safety, chalked up early in the abttle, loomed as the sole difference between victory and defeat for the Capital City tribe.

Long Run On Fake Punt.

Hero of most of the games the Ballermen have participated in during the year, Quarterback Plock wrote his name indelibly in Red and Black football annals with his history-making dash.

On the fourth down, Plock dropped back the customary distance from the 40-yard stripe as if to punt, but upon receiving the ball veered suddenly to his left and was away down the sidelines like a bullet. Unchallenged until he confronted the Crete safety man 30 yards farther down, Plock eluded him and proceeded unmolested on his dash to the Crete goal.

Kleinmen Ever Aggressive.

Keyed to the highest pitch, the twice-beaten and twice-tied Kleinmen had until that last fatal moment effectively throttled the vaulted Lincoln offensive machine and on their own account presented a continual scoring threat in the passing combination of Kristufek and Steeple During the course of the afternoon, Crete threw 19 aerials.

The scoring stroke that nearly spelled defeat for the Red and Black occurred on the first play of the second quarter. With the start of that stanza, "Big Boy" DePoyster punted from midfield to Paul Amen on the Lincoln 5-yard line. Committing an error of judgment, the Red and Black safety attempted to snatch the bouncing pigskin and fumbled When he finally retrieved it deep in the end zone, he was thrown for a safety by Steeple, Crete end.

After that the Links defense wilted and permitted he Blue and Red horde to march 73 yards in the direction of the other counter The forward wall stiffened in the crisis, however and beat back the Cardinals on four attempts to push the spheroid across from the five-yard line Successive Crete flips from Kristufek to Steeple and then to Douglas accounted for 57 yards of the longest sustained drive of the fracas.

Crete Has Advantage.

The battle was all Crete in the first two periods and most of the third. Getting the ball on an exchange of punts, the Cardinals worked down to the Lincoln 12-yard line but again were repulsed and the Red and Black took the ball over on downs on the 18-yard line, as the third canto came to a close

With the opening of the final period, no indication of the impending climax was apparent Plock and DePoyster continued their punting duel the Red and Black obtaining possession of the pill on Lincoln's 40-yard line with three minutes to go A running play netted four yards and two attempted passes fell incomplete, but on the next play from punt formation, Plock was loose on his spectacular run

Outside of Plock, who stole the show, several Lincoln performers heid the spotlight as a reward for their fine defensive play Don Jensen, playing roving center, and Bill Thorpe even in the thick of the proceedings were the sparkplugs in the line Although his fumble nearly proved disastrous to his team, Amen redeemed himself, as in the last half minute, he batted to earth a last desperate heave from Kristufek which was about to settle into the arms of Steeple near Lincoln goal line

The Crete backfield established itself as a smooth working unit while Steeple and Ojers were outstanding in the forward wall.

JACKSON TEAM HARD PRESSED

Beechner Clan Has Tight Squeeze In Grid Clash With Cathedral.

Scoring midway in the fourth quarter, following a 52-yard march, Jackson high school's gridders repulsed a determined Cathedral high eleven Friday afternoon at Wesleyan field by a 6-0 count. The Bluebirds outplayed Beechner's club throughout the first three periods, except for a brief moment at the start of the game, but Jackson came back in the final canto.

A 15-yard penalty at Cathedral's expense aided materially in the Jackson march, giving the Junior Methodists a first down on the Bluebird four-yard line. Knight hit center for two yards. Hansen then fumbled, Young recovering for a yard gain The third down found Knight sliding over by inches only through the Catheedral right side.

Too Much Knight

It was a simple case of too much Knight, the 14-year-old Jackson freshman fullback making his own holes if none opened up for him. Besides carrying the ball, Knight did most of the punting and some of the passing

To Dick Beilharz, however goes the credit for the longest run of the day from scrimmage, the Cathedral half slicing off tackle for 25 yards in the second period. Knight's longest contribution was an 18-yard journey which punctuated Jackson's scoring bid

Besides Knight Dale Seligman Bobby Stevens and Jim Anderson scintillated for Jackson while Brick, the Beilharz twins and Straka paced the Downtowners Jackson made five first downs to three for Cathedral with the Beechners adding three to one for Cathedral on penalties.

COACHES UNABLE AGREE ON RULES

Survey Discloses Wide Variance; Tutors Both For and Against.

NEW YORK, Nov 11—(INS)—The opinions of the leading football coaches are at a wide variance over the present code, additional votes cast in the International News Service poll revealed today.

Few are solidly behind or opposed to the rules which cover the dead ball fumble and running with blocked kicks and incompleted laterals. Virtually all the 14 coaches polled today ask some revisions or suggest modifications.

One notable exception was A. A. Stagg, College of Pacific coach who said

"I'm not very strong for the rule It was pushed rather hard on the Atlantic coast some time ago, supposedly for the purpose of encouraging lateral passing to prevent injuries.

"It has not particularly helped lateral passing, so far as I can see, and I do not know of any particular instances where anyone was hurt by running after recovering a fumbled ball I think the game can get along very well without this law"

Agree With Stagg.

Agreeing with Stagg were Percy Locey, Denver U; Otto Krum, U. of Hawaii; C E "Tiny" Thornhill, Stanford, and Gus Dorais, U. of Detroit

Thornhill asks that the players be allowed to run with fumbled balls outside of a zone 10 yards on either side of the line of scrimmage to stop piling on The ball should be "dead" if fumbled within 10 yards of the scrimmage line, 10 yards either way. But outside of that there is little danger of piling and the fumble should be played as a live ball, he says.

Against a return to the old rules are Clyde Littlefield, University of Texas; Lewis Hardage, Oklahoma U.; Bo McMillin, Kansas State college; William Ingram, U. of California; Harry Hughes, Colorado Agricultural college, Ike Armstrong, Utah U; Don Lovewell, assistant to Howard Harpster at Carengie Tech, and Jock Sutherland, Pittsburgh.

"Bo" Has His Say.

While opposed to running with fumbled lateral passes or scrimmage plays, McMillin would be willing to allow running with fumbled punts because the offense, not the defense, needs protection.

Littlefield suggests a rule change to allow a player running with the ball in the open to continue after his knee touches the ground.

While admitting here has been too much meddling with the rules, Dorais favors allowng the recoverer of fumbled balls and blocked kicks to advance because the present rules have taken a lot of the thrills out of the game.

Harry Kipke, University of Michigan coach, is opposed to any change in the lateral pass rule. However, he believes the kicking team should be allowed to advance a ball on a recovered blocked punt, but is against permitting a player to run with a ball after recovering a fumble.

SHOPTOWN HIGH HAS CLOSE CALL

Havelock Barely Able to Win From Wymore By 8-6 Margin.

WYMORE Neb. Nov 11 — An overconfident Havelock high school football outfit, undefeated and untied this year, caught a tartar here Friday afternoon and barely eked out a narrow 8-6 triumph over more in the sixth straight loss for the local eleven. Havelock was ahead, 2-0, at the intermission, a safety by Wymore having netted the engineers the duo of points

The engineers were credited with a safety in the opening frame when McNulty fumbled a pass from center and the ball rolled behind the end zone for an automatic safety. The Havelock team then iced the game in the third stanza when Luke Miller received a pass from Dutch Lebsack.

Wymore crossed the Havelock goal on the last play of the game two long passes to Dillow turning the trick. Wymore was all fired up for the Havelock game while the Engineers, with their best record of many seasons turned in thus far, played topp ball, fumbling away three or four chances to tally

Turner and Dillow looked best in the Wymore line with McNulty and Harris as the backfield aces Case, Miller and Pruesnt the latter playing his last high school game started in the Shoptown line while Lebsack and Vic Dormer did most of the ball-toting

O'NEILL STOPS SPENCER.

O'NEILL, Neb Nov. 11—O'Neill high stopped the winning streak of Spencer high yesterday by winning a 12-7 game.

LONG RETURN WINS GAME.

HASTINGS Neb Nov 11——Hastings high school scored its fifth Mid-State league victory here Friday as the Tigers closed the season with a 6 to 0 win over York Charles Woolery's 93-yard return of the opening kickoff for a touchdown brought Hastings the necessary points The Tigers threatened only one thereafter in the third period, but a fumble ended the drive York looked good in the first quarter but was never in a serious scoring position.

Football, the Game Worth While

DENVER, Nov. 11—(AP)—Football is just as important as reading and writing and arithmetic on any college campus in the opinion of Chancellor Frederick Maurice Hunter of the University of Denver.

Chancellor Hunter, who won a Phi Beta Kappa key as well as a gridiron letter while working his way through the University of Nebraska 30 years ago, believes football is more than merely the great American sport

"Football is just as important as our school of commerce, as our dramatics debating or other classroom activities," he said. "It is an institutional and social need in American college life."

Replying to critics and carpers of the pigskin pastime, Denver's chancellor answered the often-asked question, "What is football for"?

That Natural Instinct.

"Football furnishes an outlet for the natural instinct of youth to fight, to compete," he said. "It puts them in organized battle. It is a great opportunity for players and students to show their loyalty to their schools; to make that school the best.

The gridiron sport satisfies that instinct for daring adventure, the desire to prank and outwit which if it wasn't confined to games and organized student efforts, would result in campus rowdism and uncontrolled behavior.

"And not the least important is the pageantry of the game, the spirit and color of which are a tonic and inspiration to the suppressed theatrical and histrionic desires of all us," Chancellor Hunter explained.

The Game, Not Victory.

Denver's Pioneers, in the thick of the fight for the Rocky Mountain conference championship, came in for considerable praise, but the university head reminded that triumphs were not the most important phase of the game.

"We are proud of our football army at Denver, proud of its place in our program We'll take all the victories we can get, but the most important thing is not the victories but to recognize that football is a valuable educational department of any campus"

Mr Hunter has been chancellor here since 1928 He came to the university from Oakland California, where he had served as superintendent of schools since 1917. Previous to his Oakland assignment Mr. Hunter was superintendent of city schools in Lincoln, Neb. and principal of the school of agriculture of the University of Nebraska As an active participant in football with the University of Nebraska Cornhuskers 30 years ago, Mr Hunter won his varsity letter while playing one of the regular guard positions.

The chancellor maintains a close contact with Percy Locey, Denver's head football coach, and generally is regarded as the main spring in the school's recent athletic advancement.

RAMS FAVORED TO WIN FROM VIOLETS

NEW YORK, Nov. 11—(AP)—The Fordham Rams, one of the east's most powerful football arrays, ruled a strong favorite over their traditional rivals, the Violets of New York University, at the Yankee Stadium today.

The game was the fourteenth of the series begun in 1904 with Fordham leading, eight victories to four with one tie N Y U hasn't scored a point against the Rams since 1929

Coach Hugo Otoupalik who has developed nationally prominent wrestling teams at Iowa State college, has only three lettermen to star the 1933-34 mat season.

PRESTIGE RISKED BY GRID LEADERS

Saturday's Game Book of Prime Importance In Front Rank.

BY HERBERT W. BARKER.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11—(AP)—Football's championship contenders fought it out in hand-to-hand encounters all along the battleground today for their own glory and the entertainment of the nation's fandom

For the first time this season, sectional combats completely dominated the program, except for Georgia's sally into the north to met Yale and Ohio State's trip to Philadelphia to battle Pennslyvania.

Otherwise, it was Southern California-Stanford and Oregon-Oregon State in the far west, Michigan-Iowa in the Big Ten, Nebraska-Kansas in the Big Six; Duke-Maryland and Mississippi-Tennessee in the south, and Princeton-Dartmouth and Army-Harvard in the east.

The day's largest crowd, perhaps 85,000, was expected in the Los Angeles coliseum, where Southern California, unbeaten but tied by Oregon State, tacked Stanford. That same giant-killing Oregon State outfit hoped to ruin Oregon's undefeated and untied record

Rushing Perfect Records.

Along with Oregon, Michigan, Nebraska, Duke, Princeton, Army and Georgia, among major schools, were risking perfect records. Michigan, bidding for another undisputed Big Ten title, was favored against the speedy Hawkeyes of Iowa, and Nebraska was expected to clinch the Big Six crown again with a victory over Kansas.

Duke, Southern conference power, apparently had little to fear from Maryland, while Georgia, despite a lengthy casualty list, was picked to beat Yale for the fourth successive time, a feat no school but Harvard ever has accomplished.

Army had no visions of another 46-0 rout of Harvard, but a Crimson victory would come under the head of a tremendous upset. Princeton, an alert outfit with power and speed to burn, was the public choice over a rapidly improving Dartmouth eleven

"Irish" Again on Spot.

Despite a program of four Big Ten conference games, the midwest, as well as the country at large, watched with intense interest Notre Dame's attempt to halt the unbeaten Boilermakers of Purdue. Despite successive defeats by Carnegie, Pitt and Navy, the Ramblers continued to give the impression of having all kinds of power that might break out, at any moment, into a tremendous scoring splurge

There's many another featured battle on the menu, notably the clash at Pittsburgh between Duquesne's undefeated and untied eleven with the Pitt Panthers, the toss-up duel of Columbia and Navy at New York; the annual clash of New York university and Fordham at the Yankee stadium, and of Brown and Syracuse at Providence

Mississippi's right to continue in the chase for the Southeastern conference title was seriously threatened by Tennessee in a southern slate marked otherwise by Virginia Poly's attempt to halt the rugged Crimson Tide of Alabama.

Colorado university stood forth a formidable menace to Utah's Rocky Mountain conference champions, while Texas and Arkansas, Southwest conference leaders, were favored over Baylor and Rice.

PLAINSMEN PILE UP POINT TOTAL

Wesleyan Drives Across Doane's Goal to Trio of Touchdowns.

CRETE, Neb., Nov. 11—Nebraska Wesleyan's Plainsmen remained today at the top of the N C A. C. 1933 football heap following the Friday night 18-0 triumph over Doane at Simon Field with a small crowd in attendance. The Wesleyans led 6-0, at the half. Wesleyan outdowned Doane, 20 to 6

It was Wesleyan's second win of the year, having downed Midland by two touchdowns in another conference tilt some two weeks ago The loss definitely eliminated Doane from further consideration in the conference race.

Somerhalder Goes Over.

Neither team threatened seriously in the opening period but some 50 Wesleyan rooters were partially appeased when a 53-yard jaunt culminated with Somerhalder's end sweep for the touchdown and brilliant running by Somerhalder Weyand and Barrett, plus Somerhalder's passes had brought the ball down the field

A fourth-down pass which netted 16 yards Barrett to Seyler found the latter crossing the double chalk line Somerhalder drove through for another counter midway in the final period Somerhalder also scored as the fourth period opened but an offside penalty erased his score and Doane held for downs on its own three-yard line

Somernalder Barrett and Weyand cut plenty of didoes carrying the ball for Wesleyan, with Weaver and Keill the Doane aces In the line Vernon Maynard Johnny Marrow and the Shuman twins starred for Wesleyan with Kobes, Bayer and Schultz pacing the Tigers.

Beatrice Eleven Defeats Fairbury

FAIRBURY, Neb. Nov. 11—Beatrice high school kept its record clear of defeat last night by winning a 12-0 victory over Fairbury high in a thrilling game played before 2,500 fans.

The Beatrice team had too much speed for the Fairbury eleven which fought hard all the way and might have gotten a scoreless tie but for two unfortunate breaks.

Early in the game a fourth down drive by Beatrice was halted on the one-foot line but an offside penalty gave the Queen City eleven another chance and Andrews carried it across

In the second half poor handling of a punt enabled Beatrice to recover on the 5 yard stripe and Langley drove across

Albion Tops List In Hi Record.

(This is the seventh of a series of articles regarding the leading Nebraska high school football teams)

By GREGG McBRIDE.

What is the best record in Nebraska high school football circles at present? Well, here it is—the performance of Albion high school in the past three years

The Cardinals are working on a three-year winning streak, their last defeat being in November, 1930 Over this stretch, Albion has been tied on several occasions but never defeated. This year the Cards have turned back Madison, 7-0, trimmed Norfolk 14-6, walloped Central City, 20-6 and finished 29-6 in front of Newman Grove Last week's game brought a scoreless tie with Tilden, another team which is undefeated this year Friday's encounter at Albion brought another scoreless tie in competition with Fullerton

The remarkable record of Albion stamps William E Putnam as one of the leading coaches in Nebraska high school circles Putnam is in his ninth year and each season he has grouped a team which almost gives a polished performance of versatile offense and tight defensive play.

This year Putnam assembled his winning aggregation from comparatively green squad. Center Rosenberg Quarterback Morgan and Fullback Hinzpeter being the only members of the 1932 starting lineup Hinzpeter's running and plunking have featured the attack in every game while Morgan's generalship has been valuable in directing the green eleven Center Rosenberg has been the spark in the line while his defensive play of Fostering and pre-season gaining ability of Jim Paper a speedy sophomore have been outstanding

Columbus and Neligh remain on the Albion slate The squad averages eighty-six over 152 pounds with a 156 pound line and 145-pound backfield Squad roster

Baer Turns "Softie"; Prefers Film Career to Fame With Gloves

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 11—(INS)—The life of an actor, rather than that of a pugilist, appeared to be preferable to Max Baer, debonair heavyweight fighter today. Baer took time out during the trial of his tangled managerial affairs to say that he was going to Hollywood to consider two film offers just as soon as the trial is ended.

Looks Swell As Marine.

'One of these parts calls for me to play a marine" he said "This sounds good to me and I may pick this play. Say, I would look pretty swell in one of those uniforms.

"Sure, I am going to keep right on in the pictures I am taking voice lessons, and they say my vocal delivery has a punch"

Baer showed no interest in fighting anyone except Primo Carnera, the champion

"There is no one left for him to fight but me,' he stated "Carnera is fighting too many second-raters. He is hurting the fight game by his present policy

Dempsey His Trainer.

"Don't think I will get out of condition while I am playing in the pictures I can act and fight at the same time Dempsey will keep me in physical trim while I'm around Hollywood."

Baer, at present, is seeking cancellation of a manager's contract made nearly three years ago with J. Hamilton Lorimer of Oakland. Lorimer filed a cross-complaint asking a split of Baer's earnings in the ring and from motion pictures.

STANFORD HELD UP BY DELAYED TRAIN

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11—(AP)—A sinking railroad track almost broke up the crucial Stanford-Southern California football game today.

The Los Angeles-bound Stanford Indians were on one of five trains held up for five hours when the tracks suddenly sank five feet into swampy ground six miles south of Watsonville, Calif

Three hundred workmen dumped carloads of crushed rock under the tracks to ease them back into place and the football players safely crossed at 3 30 a m. Southern Pacific officials ordered that the train be given the right-of-way to permit it to reach Los Angeles by noon, four hours later than planned

A crowd of more than 80,000 was expected for the game

BIG BAM TO QUIT AFTER NEXT YEAR

Ruth Plans Play Another Season; Then Turn In His Uniform.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11—(INS)—After one more year of active playing, Babe Ruth, the New York slugger, will be ready to hang up his spikes as a player—but not be ready to give up baseball altogether.

"Yes, I believe one more year of active playing will be enough for me,' Ruth said, "but after that I would like to manage a team'

"What club have you in mind?" he was asked.

"Any club I could get I am still the property of the Yankees, so my plans for the future are somewhat vague After a few years on this end of the game, I plan to quit the game entirely. A fellow can't die playing baseball, you know."

And Tony Chuckles.

Tony Lazzeri, standing beside Ruth, chuckled when he heard Ruth say he was only going to play actively for one more year

"Say, he'll be in there for a long time after that," the Yankee infielder commented.

As Ruth waited for the Lurline to sail for Los Angeles, he anxiously paced the deck waiting for "Lefty" O'Doul to appear.

"That guy has my golf clubs," he growled, "and I want them before this ship pulls out"

Ruth said he and his wife and his daughter planned to leave Los Angeles tonight for New York after seeing the Southern California-Stanford football game.
